

WITH THE PLAYS AND PLAYERS

THE THREE VOCARYS
AT THE
OAKLAND ORPHEUM

MACDONOUGH.

Florence Roberts, whose position as a star is firmly fixed, will appear at the Macdonough today, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in a new play by Seymour Obermer entitled "The House of Bondage."

In this production Miss Roberts will have the highly capable assistance of Arthur Forrester, Thurloe Bergen, Kent Desswaters, Harry Gibbs, Ann Warington and Mary Pert. A correct and hand-some setting is given to the piece by John Corcoran, and the direction Miss Roberts is again a surety.

Miss Roberts' entire career, in which an unbroken succession of successes has emphasized her ability, has given her no role that so admirably suits her qualifications as that of the wife of an intellectual type who loves her husband, the poison of hate and the knife of double entendre. Turning from this husband, who is, among other things, unfaithful, John falls in love with a great surgeon, whom she, in a philanthropic spirit solely, has assisted in raising money for the erection of a sanatorium. This surgeon is prominent among spectators at the drama, and with his wife's husband develops a chronic ailment of that sort, is called on to perform upon him an operation of a vital nature. Fortunately the operation is successful, and through a cleverly unavowed series of complications John's difficulties are properly and logically solved.

"The House of Bondage" has been particularly praised on account of its brilliant lines. It is declared to team with smart epigrams and keen repartees. Mr. Obermer, too, has shown himself a master of stagecraft in his construction of situations and climaxes. At the close of the second act he has given Miss Roberts a scene in which she is given opportunities for emotional acting which exceed anything she has hitherto attempted.

Corinne

The Macdonough will have Corinne next Thursday to Saturday in the new musical comedy entitled "Lola From Berlin," which had its initial presentation in the Liberty Theater, New York City, by Elswit and Erlanger where it received a capacity audience for four months.

The book is by John J. Nally, while the orchestra and vocal ensemble numbers are by Wm. Jerome and Juan Schwartz.

The new play marks the realization of one of Miss Corinne's ambitions—that of playing a solo-comic role.

The play is a well built comedy, not the type of so-called musical comedies, but having a well rounded plot with its characters of the flesh and blood variety. In the first act Miss Corinne will sing her latest success, entitled "Bright Eyes."

Some of the principals supporting Corinne include: Mark Sullivan, Hazel Carlton, Franklin Vall, Henry Carl Lee, Little Gay Wilson, Osborn Clemson, Lillian Vernon, Freddie Stott, Pauline Powers, Frank W. Woods, Banville Ingelborg and a beauty chorus.

COPHEUM

Another one of those big, sparkling vaudeville bills of the sort that has kept the Oakland Orpheum packed for weeks will be put on the stage this afternoon, and the Sunday crowds will, as usual, find a feast of good things to delight them at the Twelfth-street temple of vaudeville during the day and night.

There will be some European novelties in the show, some of the cleverest of American vaudeville acts, brought to the coast by the Orpheum Company for its own theaters.

The Oakland Orpheum has established a reputation for the presentation of extraordianry vaudeville attractions, and it has become a habit among fully 100,000 people to sit the theater in vaudeville, not regularly.

Next week the show will be as attractive as ever, a claus bill, selected with regard to the varying tastes of theater-goers, containing a blend of music, dramatic stuff, acrobatic stunts, comedy capers, skillful and mystifying magic and pretty girls and accomplished performers to puzzle all this modish of vaudeville entertainments.

Prominent among the new features next week will be the Three Vocarys. They are well known in America, although they are English origin, and probably start also abroad to begin in the class of eccentric comedy acrobats. Dressed in the street attire of middle class Parisians, with hats, shoes and even overcoats, they perform really remarkable athletic feats and the comedy they manage to interpolate is extremely clever and appealing. Several years ago they were imports as the feature attraction at Hammerstein's Roof Garden in New York for the summer season, and their success was in the nature of a sensation. Since that time they have played in Australia and elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hughes, two of America's most popular tailors, will make their initial appearance in this city next week in a comedy entitled "The Press," which has an interesting history.

Mr. Hughes is ambitious, and last year when he required a new vehicle he announced in the New York dramatic papers that he would award a prize of $1000 for the best sketch submitted, for three plays by an American author, and the 100 manuscripts were submitted and from this collection Mr. and Mrs. Hughes selected Mr. Beaumont's "Suppressing the Press" which will be seen here.

There are few funnier men on the vaudeville stage than Pauline Latell, the popular boyish beauty, black-coat comedian, and who is a real hit this season with a new musical monologue without the aid of burnt cork called "Dull Care," based on a well-known series of cartoons of that name in a New York daily. Latell started out originally as a musical comedian, and gradually evolved to the built up about the musical features. However, it is as a fun-maker that Latell shines.

Miss Anna Leichter, a prima donna of established fame, will render several operatic selections.

Wilfred Clarke and his English players, who have created a great novelty with their "Rabbit Hole" during the last week, will continue to appear in the farce, "What Will Happen Next?"

"The Mysterious" De Blera, the greatest of all European illusionists, is to dazzle the crowds with some of his mystifying feats.

The vive Salangels, Parisian whirlwind dancers, will offer a dancing specialty which is absolutely unique.

Fun will be combined with music in the performance which Hibbert and Warren, the pianist and the dancer, are giving.

The Rooney Sisters will perform some terpsichorean feats and sing a bit in the most approved style, and some new motion pictures will round out the show.

BELL

Another bill of sterling merit opens at the popular Bell this afternoon, and the character of the various numbers to be offered indicates an excellent bill of fare for the week. Wenona Frances and company, novelty sharpshooters, who will appear in one of the feature acts of the new show, are certain of interest to those who enjoy marvelous feats of marksmanship. Most of their feats in shooting are done at long range, the marksmen standing at the rear of the house and hitting the various targets on the stage, some 100 feet or more apart.

OAKLAND FORGES AHEAD WHETHER THE RAINS FALL OR THE SUN SHINES

DESPITE STORMY WEATHER REALTY MARKET IS GOOD

Approximately $180,000 Worth of New Buildings Started in Oakland This Week.

Of course during such a week of practically continuous stormy weather as has been the experience of the community through the one just closed stagnation was to be expected in the real estate market and a total suspension of building operations. The latter actually occurred to the misfortune of the skilled workers employed on the buildings undergoing construction and the disbursements of owners and contractors who are eager to get the same ready for occupancy to meet the growing demand. Inspection of realty could be made only under the extraordinary difficulties which are created by oceans of mud and torrents of rain. Most of the automobiles of real estate dealers had to remain house in idleness in the garages.

Storms Fail to Stop Trading

But with all its drawbacks the past week has not been unproductive of results either in realty trading or in the initiation of new building projects. Several real estate firms report sales and the record of the Board of Public Works on applications for building permits during the latter part of the week makes a very satisfactory showing.

Activity in Realty Market

Some of the realty dealers report an unexpected activity in the realty market despite the unfavorable weather conditions. And the inquiry for rental properties has been something unusual. One firm—the Layman Real Estate Company—which moved ten days ago from quarters it had occupied undisturbed for the past twenty-four years on Eighth street to the Liberty Theatre building on Broadway, north of Fourteenth street, reports in the renting department two extra clerks have been employed to its force to respond to the increasing demands for tenable quarters.

Demand for Rentable

Now when it is considered that all other real estate firms are kept equally busy in the tenement department there is only one additional reduction to be drawn from the fact namely that the population of Oak and continues to increase at a marvelous rate so it is conclusively proved by the records of the various brokers' of leases that there are much fewer vacant houses in the city than has ever been known to exist save in the year 1908 when we were suddenly invaded by 250,000 San Francisco refugees who had been driven from their homes or the contagion of April that year. Then of course there was not a vacant

BERKELEY FLAT BRICK BLOCK BUILDING FOR EIGHTH STREET GOES ON

$10,000 Structure Has Been Completed on Dwight Way and Bowditch Street.

An illustration printed on this page shows the front elevation of a $10,000 four-story frame and exterior plastered structure which has just been finished from designs by C. M. Cook at the corner of Dwight way and Bowditch street. The interiors are artistically designed and finished.

At the close of the week a permit was issued to A. Friedman to erect a two-story brick building on the north side of Eighth street 100 feet east of Clay street for the b. s. m. foundation of which the excavation has been already made. The building will cost $3,000. It is another stride in the westward expansion of the business district.

OAKLAND, CAL., SUNDAY, JANUARY 24, 1909

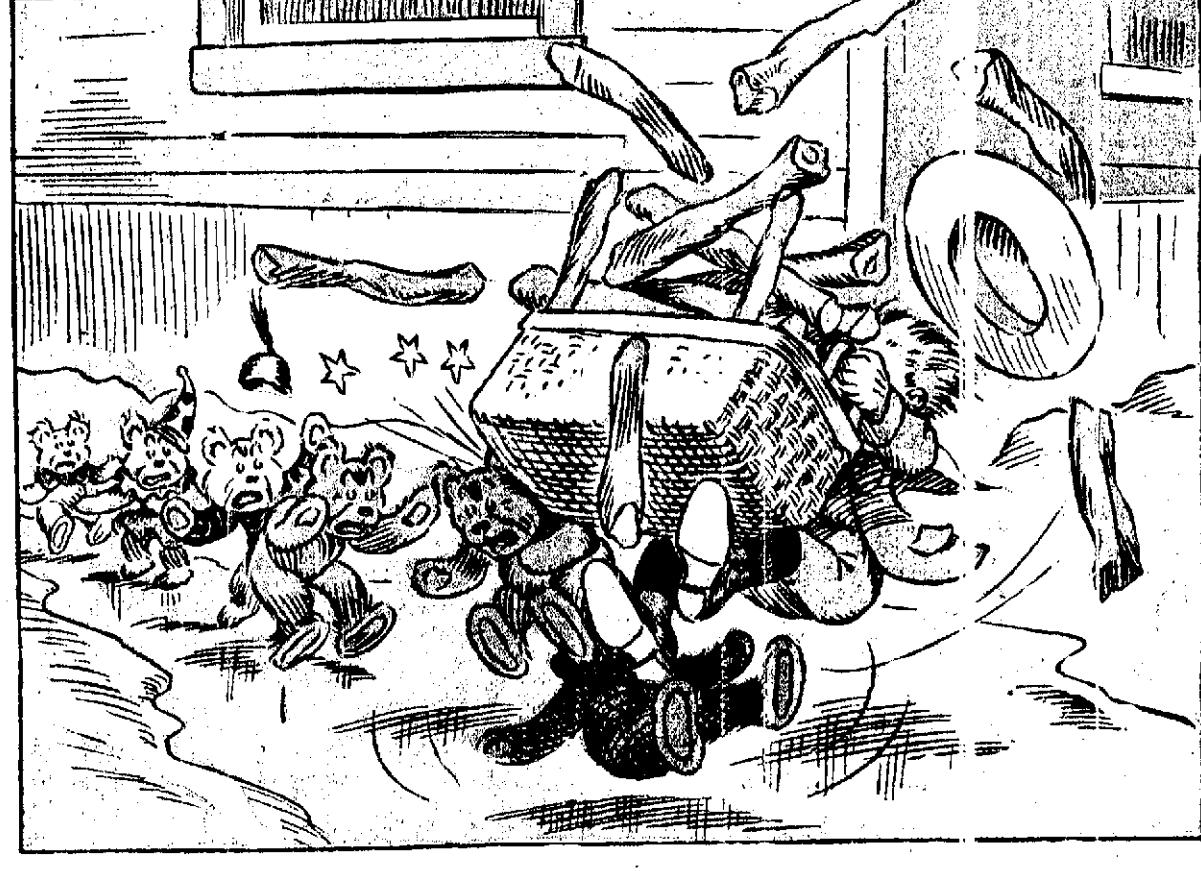

1. One day, in coldest winter weather,
The naughty Teddies got together
And planned to have some sliding nice
Upon a homemade pond of ice.

2. With growl and giggle, squeal and sputter
They poured some water in the gutter,
And in a trice the water froze
And number one fell on his nose.

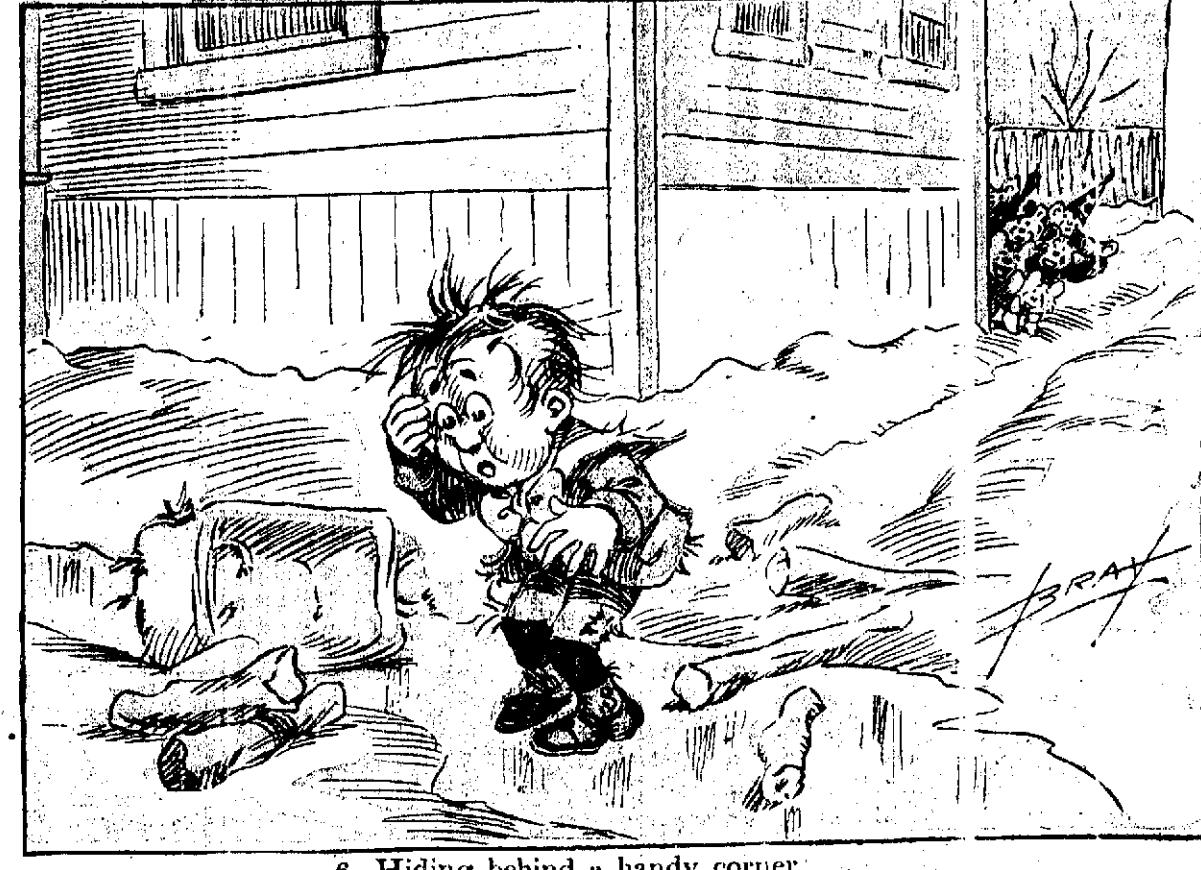

3. They slide about in greatest joy,
Nor do they notice Johnny-boy
Who comes up slowly with the wood.
For 'tis his day for being good.

4. The Teds run off to slide once more
And Johnny strikes the slippery shore;
The Teds returning on their slide,
With basket, wood and boy collide.

5. Poor John! the basket's on his head—
He thinks that something's struck him dead.
The naughty bears at once desert,
Nor stop to see if he is hurt.

6. Hiding behind a handy corner,
They watch the miserable mourner.
His basket's broke, his wood is scattered,
And he himself is bruised and battered.

The Smartest Fashions of Well-Dressed Folk

A CHAFING DISH SUPPER

EAREST MADGE: We have just had a most lovely party. You know our flat is so small that we cannot undertake very large entertainments, so Jack and I invited a few friends to a little chafing dish supper. We asked the guests not to wear light clothes, so they came in comparatively simple gowns, and we made it a point to invite newly married people, so that every one would be on equal terms; in other words, so there would be no flirtations to break up the "crowd." The refreshments we offered our guests were not magnificent, it is true, but I think they were appreciated. Eliza Cox had a terrible time trying to find out how to cook the eggs. The menu included scrambled eggs and mushrooms, cooked all together in that delicious way that you and I know; tempting little caviar sandwiches with a little layer of chopped onion on top; some thinly cut bread and butter and some swiss cheese. We tied all the men up in big checkered aprons and made them do all the heavy work.

Eliza Cox had on a caftan-like cashmere with an embroidered panel, and, as she is of the practical turn of mind, she brought with her a dainty apron, cut so that it extended above the waist line, giving it quite an empire effect. It was arranged in panels, each one outlined by a little band of narrow lacy lace, while a huge ruffle gave it the necessary fullness.

The "captain of the chafing dish" was Anne Walker, who wore a pretty gown of blue broadcloth with revers of black satin and a white net guimpe. She also wore an apron of many ruffles and furbelows, with a bit of ribbon run through a ladder around the edge. She looked very well, for the blue was particularly becoming.

Mrs. Hunes wore a most effective costume of tan cashmere buttoned on the left side and held at the waist line by a brown satin girdle. The neck line was also trimmed with brown satin.

You see that while all the gowns were festive they were not at all dressy and could not be spoiled by the culinary efforts of their wearers.

Always your affectionate sister,
ELEANOR.

American Widow Wins Title of Countess

WALLACE, Idaho, Jan. 28.—A fortune from one of the most valuable estates in Germany and the title of Dowager Countess of Marbrück constitute the reward which will fall to Mrs. J. H. Voelker of this city, as the result of a five-year legal battle in the courts of Germany to secure her rights as the widow of the rightful but banished heir to the title, and castle of the Count Frederick Voelker.

Wins in Court

A cablegram from Berlin announces to Mrs. Voelker that she has finally won her case in the court of last appeal, despite the prolonged and bitter fight made by her husband's relatives, and is now entitled to a share of the family estate sufficient to keep her and her family in ease and affluence the rest of their lives. With the settlement of the case the title of count goes to the second son of Count Frederick, who is now employed in an assay office in Anaconda, Montana.

Mrs. Voelker, then an opera singer, and her husband were married in Paris some twenty-five years ago, despite objections interposed on the part of the young man's family. The rightful heir to the title was disinherited and banished by his father, and the couple came to America eighteen years ago. Voelker died, leaving his wife and three daughters in reduced financial circumstances.

Presents Her Claims

Upon the death of Count Frederick, five years ago, the widow of his oldest son presented her claim as an heir to the estate entitled to her as his wife and the mother of his children.

Relatives of the deceased count fought her demands and with their wealth and influence carried the case through court after court. The matter was even carried into the Reichstag for consideration.

WOMEN'S CONGRESS AT WHICH POLYGAMY AND 'FREE UNIONS' WERE ADVOCATED

Problems relating to marriage were among the subjects discussed at the first All-Russian Women's Congress, which has just been held at the Town Hall, St. Petersburg. One delegate characterized marriage as "simple slavery," and advocated polygamy as the ideal institution. Others took the same line, and a majority claimed the recognition by society of "free unions."

"Well, and you'll see," said Mrs. Kreling, who always enjoyed a bit of fun.

"Next day at rehearsal, we met Mascagni, and as I had often played the role in Europe, we had a great laugh over it. One of my sweetest memories is a photo of Mrs. Kreling, which has across it her own handwriting, 'Thanks! You carried us splendidly through the 'Mikado' scene!'"

Writes Own Music

"As a rule, however, I write my own words and music, for, being a singer myself, you see, I appreciate the necessity of making a song 'singable,' as well as singable."

"Stories of my life and career: 'Bless your heart, they'll fill a book.' Here's one, however, that may interest you."

"On my return from Europe, where I had been for seven years singing in repertoire, operas, 'Lucia,' 'Sonnambula,' 'Daughter of the Regiment,' 'Carmen,' etc., I went home to San Francisco for a vacation. At the Tivoli Opera House, where I had sung for twelve years in a different opera every Monday night, they were playing 'The Mikado.' They asked me if I would play Yum-Yum."

A Tender Memory

"I said that, being tired, I'd do Katisha, the contralto part, for them, instead. One evening I was on the stage and in a box sat Mascagni, who had come to San Francisco to produce 'Cavalleria Rusticana' after his financial failure in New York."

"Hiding behind the grotesque make-up of the contralto, Katisha, he did not recognize Roma, the soprano, and I enjoyed the joke hugely."

"When he asked Mrs. Kreling, our manager, who was to be Santuzza, she

"I forgot that I was in the presence of the greatest woman of her time in the world—As I have always considered her—and with a touch of sympathy that makes us all equal put my hand on her shoulder and said, 'Honey, I'm so sorry!' And cried, too, like an old fool. I never realized the cause. Gallagher, who was a trusted employee, was given the money for transportation to the mountains of the country, as the place was intended to stay the country people. The New York police have been asked to look out for the missing man."

INSULT TO FRENCH FLAG IS WIPE OUT

BOSTON, Jan. 22—Walter L. Gallagher, a messenger of the American Express Company, has disappeared with $5000 and the love for a girl whom he met at Derry, N. H., says the officials of the company. Inquiries have been made to look out for the missing man.

BERLIN, Jan. 23—Cutting fish by telephone is the latest invention of a Norwegian which is now employed by the fisheries of his nation.

A microscope which magnifies submarine sounds is shut up in a thin waterproof steel box and kept by communication by metallic wires with a telephone receiver, installed on the fishing boat. Each kind of fish gives in the instrument a particular sound. The arrival of herring for example is signified by a sort of whistling, the codfish announces its arrival in the neighborhood by a sort of grunting.

French visitors to Berlin protested against the picture and most Germans regarded it as a violation of good taste.

The woman cabman and the woman taxi-driver have been features of Paris life for some time, but Miss O'Neill is the first lady chauffeur to take charge of a car that is put on hire in London. She was a nurse and served through the South African war.

Weds Chinese at Request of Her Mother

SEATTLE, Jan. 22.—Commanded by her mother to wed a Chinese fifteen years her senior when she was only 16 years old, Mrs. Paula M. Jett is now suing Chin M. Jett to sever the bonds of matrimony that have existed between them since Christmas Eve of the year 1904. Mrs. Jett alleges that the Chinese sought her hand through the matrimonial agency of her mother, in Newark, N. J. She sets out in her complaint that her mother influenced and encouraged her to succumb to the wooing of the almond-eyed lover, read letters to her reflecting the beatings of the Mongolian heart, and answered them herself, as emanating from a girl of 16. Not realizing the meaning of such a marriage, and upon the command of her mother, Mrs. Jett avers that she wedged the Celestial.

Within two weeks, the girl wife says, she had a violent quarrel with her husband, and these family difficulties have since continued with increasing intensity until it is no longer possible for them to live together. She says that she gave all the community property, which consists of household goods, to the value of $200, and such alimony as the court may decree. She says her husband is connected with a restaurant at the corner of Second avenue and James street.

A child, George Basill Jett, was born to the parents a year ago. Mrs. Jett does not ask for the custody of the child, but petitions the court to restrain Jett from prohibiting her from visiting it.

SUPPRESS DISCUSSION OF STEINHEIL CASE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—After fifteen years of vain endeavor to obtain compensation for the loss of her kingdom, Liliuokalani, former Queen of Hawaii, appeared in person the other day before the House Committee on Claims. She is willing to accept $40,000 as a complete settlement. Queen Liliuokalani, wife of Jonah Kuhio Kalanianaole, delegate to Congress, The Princess Louise of the Queen, and Judge M. Hatch, who figured in the Provisional Government of Hawaii in 1893, will present to President Taft in the presentation of the case.

Nothing in the dress of the Queen, who is tall and slender, unless it be the length of the forbidding fingers in her little black lace mitts, can be considered queenly. A brown velvet dress, trimmed in black and partially concealed by a long coat, clothed the dimly light figure of the claimant, who appears very frail in comparison with the dusky Princess who sits by her side. The Queen's position is still not perfect, but to address the committee but the first quicly needed approval of Judge Hatch's remarks.

After the hearing the former Queen held an informal reception. All the members of the committee were introduced to her, but she did not get to know them. The committee will consider the bill.

Houseman George Washington, an expected before the committee to urge a claim of $300,000 as compensation for 1000 acres of land along the Little Miami River in Ohio which was granted to Washington by the Indians in 1783, will be confounding the records made under the authority of the United States. The Washington bill includes a clause to prohibit any Indian from giving away land without the consent of the government.

CHINESE LADY AS TEACHER TO ENGLISH OF GOOD MANNERS

SUPPRESS DISCUSSION OF STEINHEIL CASE

LONDON, Jan. 23.—A lesson in manners has been given in a London drawing room by a Chinese lady to a crowd of English school women.

Among the girls in the room, by a number of English ladies to a Chinese dame, was the wife of a Chinese diplomat, and when the talk turned to the wives of the hosts, asked her about it she would be "sweet as to how big little bird."

"I shall be delighted to show my wife's virtue to the English girls, my other India will first show me."

"But I had no idea that it was an English woman to make an exhibition of their after dinner."

THE FIRST PROFESSIONAL LADY CHAUFFEUR, MISS SHEILA O'NEILL

"Her skill is remarkable," said Miss Michelbacher. "She is able to earn a good living by making lace, and I shall be glad to give her a start."

Another outgrowth of the case may be the formation of a bar affiliated with the Irish Fellowship Club to care for the custom and laws of the country.

During the last few days, Miss Gingles has been engaged on a remarkable test to prove her innocence. She claims that she herself made the lace which was found in her trunk and seized as stolen, and as proof, she offered to duplicate some of the most intricate patterns.

"Today she brought into court a piece of lace bearing the name of 'Ginger,' which she claimed was an exact duplicate of one of the alleged stolen articles. This Miss Gingles explained, won a prize of $2, or $10, from the Irish Industrial League in Belfast.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The American man problem puzzles all," says Truth.

"The American man is apparently, objectionable to the American woman, for when he latter is sufficiently rich she generally marries a European. Though the pick of European men are prepared to marry rich American women, the European woman can seldom be induced to marry an American."

"The deficiencies of the American man must be serious, for they appear to render him objectionable alike to the women of his own country and of other countries."

ENDOWMENT FOR ALL MOTHERS PLANNED

Anti-Race Suicide Movement Which Is Endorsement of Bernard Shaw's Principles.

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—A remarkable "anti race suicide" movement has been making rapid progress in West Germany. A society of wealthy ladies has been formed there for the purpose of endowing all women who bring children into the world, irrespective of whether they are legally married or not.

The society adopts the principle of G. Bernard Shaw that all mothers should be rewarded by the State, and claims that when the State neglects its duties private benevolence should supply its place. The founders of the society, in an announcement, declared that all children are national assets.

The women point out that Germany's heavy illegitimacy ratio at present results in the hands of infants dying of neglect and of thousands more growing up as criminals, loafers or apprentices. They propose to remedy this by maintaining all children and providing their mothers, where necessary, with means of sustenance.

A further demand is made by these women that all factories where young mothers are employed shall equip rooms in the immediate vicinity of the workshops where children can play, and that their mothers shall be allowed to cease work for a short period several times during the day in order to attend to their offspring. The more radical members of the society recommend a certain amount to be paid to all mothers of the poorer class a few days before the expected

THE week past has been busy in the social world and while a trial it has been to get from one function to another in the incessant downpour. The indomitable will of the old sex has been severely tried but the weather man did not succeed in preventing their attendance at the numerous attractive affairs of the week. It was during one of the heavy showers of the week that the wedding party of Miss Hubbard emerged from Trinity Church on Wednesday noon the 13th of Thursday evening. Miss de Gruist was decked in the same noisome garment.

There are signs that the weather man has changed his sentiments in regard to the rain and it looks as if a repetition of the same variety of weather will be the order for the coming week.

I am of the opinion of the one of the young birds who told this past week that she would never choose to live in San Francisco for her wedding. The rain spoils so many plans but there is an other side. Has one ever taken a peek at the hills recently?

Stain Your Hair
A Rich Brown

Simple Preparation of Walnut Juice That Detoxifies

An interesting little book has been issued on the remarkable effects of a walnut juice in staining hair faded or bleached. It has the advantage of being free from any strong sulphur, lead or other poisons which cause hair fading and contains no acids nor oil in sediment and no water. It is a good hair tonic and quantity is given to those who wish to stain their hair to send to one of the laboratories of Dr. J. H. Campbell, 1404 Franklin building, Cincinnati, Ohio, will sell by mail in small quantities.

Those desirous of preparing said product for their own hair should write to the above address and inclose 25 cents in postage. For treatment the preparation may be obtained at drug stores generally at $1 for a full size package.

If the hair is very faded or soft with the a tint color of the hair as to use the experts can be applied. In a moment the hair is nothing but a pale red and does it even from tip to root. Any shade can be obtained from a beautiful light blonde to a dark brown. The shades do not last a year. One bottle ordinarily lasts a year.

ORCHID SOCIETY'S FAVORITE FLOWER

Orchids are declared to be no longer fashionable in Philadelphia society and in place the orchid reigns.

A young girl in certain New York beauty could always be distinguished by her taste in the orchid wreath. Now she is single and the demand for orchids is so great that florists find it difficult to supply them.

In wearing them the correct thing is to have two tucked in a few delicate sprays of asparagus fern and tied with silk ribbon matching the flowers. In shade.

They must be pinned on fear of losing the wrist when they come to her to the figure and the result is most decorative effect.

CONCERNING HEALTH and BEAUTY

By MRS. HENRY SYMES

THE COIFFURE EXPLAINED STEP BY STEP

THE day is gone when the woman who owned to her appearance can just grab her back hair somewhere, be seen over her ears and her crown, and with one deft twist arrange it for the day; by the aid of one or maybe two pins. The hair dressing of the moment is a painstaking process and requires time.

When we look at coiffures on the stage, in the street or in the house we are struck with the seeming quantity of hair possessed by every woman. Can it be possible the thoughtful must surely wonder, that every one is blessed with such luxurious tresses? Can it be that the day of thin heads has gone. This is surely not the case, the hair of the average woman is even more scarce than ever. The effect, however, is luxurious, and it is with the effect that we are chiefly concerned at present.

"But how do they do it?" you ask. "Do they wear rats? do they use a lace hair or do they wear wigs?"

Sometimes one finds sometimes another, madam. But the woman whose hair looks best arranges it with skill and, perhaps, with the assistance of some bought hair. That is why her appearance is so wonderful. That is why she looks always cool and right.

And it is this secret I wish to divulge to you today, so you my friends will not say that there is a point I have neglected; that I have not in every way tried to do my duty by giving you all needed information.

When you are arranging your hair remember that you can get no satisfactory effect if you attempt to economize in the use of hairpins. It is not necessary to invest in the expensive ones of shell amber and celluloid so extensively used two years ago. It is even better not to have nothing but the ordinary wire affairs with which you can afford to be equipped. Once provided with these—in plenty of them—in the various sizes it is well to get a few large ones. These are invaluable in holding the crown in place and also will give the coiffure greater security. Of course, for the finishing touches nothing can take the place of the invisible pin and it should be sharp and very fine. With these implements at hand no one need be afraid to let his fingers upon you once more to fasten individual hairpins do it own work. Never let one take the place of

IN DETAIL

For the office of today whether you expect to indulge in the pompadour or in the part the hair must be divided. Part it across the head just back of the ears then divide the front into three parts—the middle and two sides. This must be done even if the hair is unravelled. To arrange the front in back of the middle, set on until the effect is right, then fasten it in place by hairpins just a little below the crown. Bring up the sides—one at a time—and fasten them in the same place but let each be secure. For this you will need nothing but the medium-sized pins. The pompadour (which should be soft and low) or the part then being finished the back only is left to arrange. The ends belonging to the front hair may then be twisted slightly to form a foundation for the final knot or if the hair is not long enough they may be fastened to themselves. Their separation from the back hair is next seen in if they are included the manipulation of the back will give the effective a foundation of the front.

In the picture the hair is to be arranged in the Psycho knot so the back hair is divided—the lower from the upper and the top in 0.1 close to the head. If the hair is too scanty to arrange this way then let false hair form

NOT OLD-FASHIONED

When the time comes for the guests to leave the mother may start and say good-night. She need not apprise her daughter she should never tell the last guest he gone. The hostess is just as important—in fact more important—at an informal party than at a schoolgirl party. Should be over by 11 o'clock, even on Saturday evening. Late festivities are always reserved for days when school is over and girls have grown into young ladies.

At the guests. If any one of them should be late and leave his or her man to come home he should be polite and courteous to him. Should be very nice to the maid who is serving the refreshments. There is no excuse for such things as rudeness.

The life of a charwoman is growing stricter year by year, and you know how greatly your friends will respect both you and your mother if you are particular in your manner of entertaining and going out and about during the selection of your friends.

If there is no mother in the house to shew her daughter a parlor, the daughter may invite some old woman to come and act as charwoman. It sounds humdrum and is hardly for a number of young people to spend the evening together, but custom dictates that a charwoman is essential so there is no need to tell her to argue the fact away.

Kamil

AS THE two soldiers of the Ottoman Guard strode along a narrow street of Constantinople they conversed in earnest tones.

They will undoubtedly replace our regiment at the Taksim barracks with Young Turks declared one of the men raising his voice in his excitement, and in that event you may rest assured that those of us who have time up will quit the service while a

Not so loud, intoned the other placing a hand warningly upon his comrade's arm.

Quickly the two looked about them and saw to their relief that no one was near save a chubby fat little boy or two who toddled beside them, merrily whistling.

But little Kamil was by no means an innocent or unsuspecting as he appeared. He had heard what the soldiers had said without his countenance betrayed no knowledge of it. And now he needlessly betook himself to the courtyard in the rear of his father's wine house where he knew the Younger Turks were having their meeting.

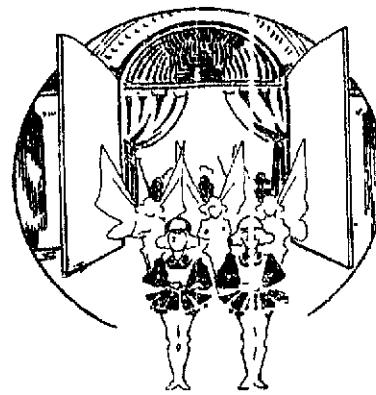

It was in the afternoon just as his brother Abil, lad of 19, was in the midst of a violent harangue. Abil's influence among his fellow was great. Having been born with a fiery spirit and when his family came to Constantinople he had been received with enthusiasm. His independent spirit did not cease from that of most Pashas he was and when his family came to Constantinople he had been received with enthusiasm. Abil's spirit remained unchanged. Very shortly he had organized a band of about twenty boys under the name of the Young Turks. All the members of this company were pledged to fight the tyranny of the sultan.

AGAINST TYRANNY

A ruler who won even fit such words as "country nation people" liberty or revolution, a good man written in a pillar and ought to be cracked from his throne" he often declared passionately. Wherever his commands at first shivered when he came to the people he was soon taken up.

At last Abil had been less bitter in his speech against the Sultan, insomuch as Abil Hamid had granted a constitution to his people. He probably was compelled to do this by the popular

A Journey to the Kingdom of Dolls

PALLIE pranced past the minaret on the roof. And thought enough was the sound thought Hilda. Cheekless as a child play room. Her newest doll wasn't at all amusing today. Indeed the newer Hilda's dolls were the less she loved them. Least of all had she been of that disreputable rag doll owned when she was a wee slip of a girl.

With her face pressed closely against the whitewashed pane followed the course of the stream of water that gurgled from the spout and splashed into the gutter below. Even the weighty arms of the trees outside which stood in its early coming had as yet failed to clothe in a garment of green buds drew her attention and she observed the bare twigs as wild birds sat on them. She switched a pencil to the side of the house. Dearly indeed still more did they eat of doors. Hilda dressed with a sigh and flung herself up in the couch.

"Buzz buzz buzz," repeated the buzzing continued in the sky over Hilda. Then presently the buzzing seemed to change into a thin voice almost a dream-like for the words came faintly and sounded far away. And these were the whisper'd words:

Come to the horizon! Hilda! Come to the horizon! Hilda! where are won drous things to see?

SCENE OF SPLENDOR

Vigil and again this night in Hilda was repeated until the little girl felt that she must go. She made the stairs to the attic she climbed up the ladder reaching to the top threw back the timber door and stepped out upon the roof. The iron hand of the overcast was a scene of extreme beauty. A faint Marmitha bellowed all over. The stars were held in the sky while the rays of the sun above struggled to overcome my to reach the earth. Gleaming in gold and a hundred facets that the clouds seemed to dash and fury from the clouds stretched wide to east and west stretching to north and south.

Put there was a ladder set up from roof through the iron railing and clinging to many human hearts to be amazement she saw what another part of the roof a countless number of girls were nestled in building scenes given over to the iron railing. And there was a high wet step and a tall ladder which went steep and the steepest climb moving clouds of the multitude of fallen world.

Climb to climbing Hilda. Climbing cloudland Hilda where the wonders lie to see!

Again the little girl lay flat upon the roof. She gazed at the iron railing and told how the world had come to be.

Mounting the ladder which led directly from the roof she gazed the first platform upon the wet high sun high. And will be imbed the silver star overhead inclined to the platforms and ladders and it seemed as though the clouds lay in a mist never as though in a mist.

At last Hilda stepped from the top most ladder into cloudland. She placed her foot after glancing upon a big cloud but she found that it held her weight easily. She lay over further more that the clouds formed but a she like wall surrounding a vast fairy city. No sooner had she laid eyes on this wall than she laid eyes on the rays of the sun above struggling to overcome my to reach the earth. Gleaming in gold and a hundred facets that the clouds seemed to dash and fury from the clouds stretched wide to east and west stretching to north and south.

Show Hilda the wonders of fairyland.

Suppose I tell you that this wall in the sky is adored by fairies.

CREEPS ON SLEEPING VICTIM AND DEALS FATAL BLOW

"Dearie" Letters Form the Basis for a Breach of Promise Suit

EPISTLES TO BE READ IN COURT

Letters Miss Haggett Says Bowles Wrote Her Are Filled With Affection.

"YOUR OWN PHIL," IS SIGNED TO THE NOTES

Youth Declared to Have Written Girl As Many As Six Times a Day

SAN FRANCISCO, January 23.—Letters brimming with expressions of endearment and reiterating again and again to a time when they shall be together for good with "nothing to trouble them" will form a foundation for the breach of promise suit recently begun by Mrs. Clara Haggett, formerly a waitress against Phil, E. Bowles Jr., a factory man and son of a millionaire Oakland banker.

If the terms "dearie" and "my own" and "only little" mean longer in study to write than half as much in the study course of love as they mean elsewhere, Miss Haggett and her attorneys believe the ground of her complaint is secure, at least if supported by other things which she will tell when the time comes.

300 Letters

Bowles wrote three hundred letters to Miss Haggett in half as many days. In none of them did he falter or show signs of exhausting his fund of endearing expressions. He sometimes wrote as many as six a day. This was after the young woman left him alone in Washington, where they had been living together, she claims, as man and wife, for almost a year, and went to Oakland at the time of her sister's death. Some of the letters follow:

Washington, D. C., August 26, 1908.—I will arrange just as soon as I possibly can to take you away from there. Do not know just what you mean by telling me that you are going up to Shasta Springs, as I know you cannot go unless some one takes you, and you know no one has the right to do that but me. PHIL

Can't Do Without You"

August 11, 1908.—I cannot get along at all with you away. Some day we are going to be together and under such happy conditions that we won't have anything to fight about, aren't we girls? And then we will be happy and independent and won't care for any one's opinion.

Aching, Breaking Heart"

Speaking of friends who have a housekeeping apartment at the Allendale, Washington, D. C., he says:

September 12, 1908.—My wife cooked the dinner. I just wish we were fixed that way, then I would be happy. With all the love of an aching, breaking, lonesome heart, I am forever and ever, your PHIL

"Will Work for You"

September 13, 1908.—As to the dress, I suppose they were surprised because you looked neat. Guess they expected to see you look like a tramp. You will never look that way again, girlie, while I am alive and have two hands to work with.

Mother Glad

September 18, 1908.—I am awfully glad that you are being such a good, true little girl and I am certainly proud of you and some day—well, you will see. I got a letter from mother yesterday but she did not say much. She did not even answer the questions that I asked her. She just said that she was glad that you were gone.

Marns Against Another

September 23, 1908.—I surely need you pretty bad, Kit, to take care of me and to do things for me, and am sick all the time and don't know how to get around at all without you. You better be careful of that fellow from Alaska, and do not have anything to do with him if you do not want me to come out there and kill you.

I Need You So!"

September 25, 1908.—I was a big fool, Kit, ever to let you go home, and I ought to have saved enough money to buy you a round-trip ticket so that you could come back. I need you, so, Kit, and my heart is set on it. I am not going to be in Maple Valley with you than to be this way. Do you remember, little girl, about this time last year we reached Seattle one morning without much money in the world and not knowing where to get any more. And how we turned around Seattle for a week, and then the next night we arrived in Maple Valley, and it was dark as pitch and we did not know where to go? Things looked pretty blue then, but we were laughing and happy and did not care, for we were together, and as far as we knew, you were to help me settle. I was ready to leave the world. Remember how we used to go to Seattle and buy cameras just to have them in the room, and how you used to buy me a cigar? These were happy days, girlie, and I hope that they will come again—don't you? I just wish I had the price of a ticket, and I would start out for home and you

JAPAN CAN DEFEAT U. S.

Hobson Declares Mikado Has Vast Gold Reserve Ready for War With America.

EASY VICTORY FOR ORIENTALS PREDICTED

Congressman States It Would Cost This Country Billions to Free Itself From Foreign Foe.

BOSTON, Jan. 28.—"Oh, no; I know," said Congressman Richard Pearson Hobson today, "what a good many people say; but I repeat that, unless the American people wake up and get control of the Pacific and never again lose it, we will be plunged into the greatest war in history. It will be with Japan."

"In spite of all you will say, I am profoundly a man of peace. It is to insure peace that I preach the perils which confront us. War—terrible, grim war—is knocking at our doors. If it shall finally break through the feeble barriers now interposing, we will have none but ourselves to blame. Japan would be more than human not to have the ideas that seem to actuate her. She has just emerged victorious from two great wars; one with Russia, believed by all men invincible. It has fired this imaginative people with great ambitions. Their country is in need; they need more territory. What is more natural for them than to look at the rich lands of the Philippines, the great plantations of Hawaii—aye, even our own Golden California?"

On Visit to Boston

Captain Hobson came to Boston to see his old friends, ex-Governor Curtis Guild, Jr., and Lawyer A. D. Hill, today.

"You see, it is all so plain to me," said the hero of the Merrimac. "I am considering something which is as self-evident to one who thinks it over as the relations of the hypothesis of the triangle to its sides is fixed and plain to a mathematician. There is nothing whatever to prevent war if Japan wants it."

Wants $125,000 to Sail Aeroplane

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—A leading local paper recently applied to Wilbur Wright for the terms upon which he would come to Berlin and make a series of flights in his aeroplane.

Wright replied that he would come for $125,000, and no less.

NO HOPE OF VOTE FOR WOMEN

Majority of Assemblymen Are Opposed to Granting Requests of Suffragists.

TWO CANVASSERS SHOW STRONG OPPOSITION

Speaker Stanton Among Others Who Think Suffragette Amendment Will Not Reach the People This Year.

(By EDWARD A. O'BRIEN.) SACRAMENTO, Calif., Jan. 23.—Indications of this writing are that the move to submit to the people a constitutional amendment granting the right of franchise to women will fail to pass the House and will thus be defeated. This is the opinion of leading assemblymen, among them Speaker Stanton.

There has been a general feeling here among legislators that the suffragists, who have been pleading with the members for votes for several weeks past, had secured enough promises of votes to guarantee the submission of the measure. That impression, however, seems to have been unfounded because two canvassers made today, although incomplete, show a majority of the assemblymen to be opposed to the proposition.

Opposed by Assemblymen

One of these canvassers was made by Assemblyman Preston of Oklah., who is opposed to the project. Preston talked on the subject with many of the members and more than half of them expressed themselves as opposed to submitting the amendment to the people. Various reasons were advanced for this opposition, the main reason being that no good would be subserved by having women vote. Another reason was the fact that no proof had been adduced that the women of California, or even a large percentage of them, demand the ballot.

Do Women Want Ballot?

Assemblyman Fullard says there are five hundred thousand women in this state. If ten or even five per cent of these should petition the legislature to grant them the right of suffrage, he would be willing to vote to submit the question to the people. Such a petition, he declares, has not been filed and there is nothing tangible before the house to show that the women of the State care for the privilege in question.

Today there were about twenty assemblymen absent. A canvass of the sixty present showed that only fourteen favored the amendment and fifty-two opposed it. In order to pass the house the amendment must have a two-thirds majority which means fifty-four votes. The amendment was to have been argued today, but was continued until next Thursday morning at 11 o'clock.

Quake Recorded In Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The seismographs of the Weather Bureau recorded an earthquake of distant origin late last evening that is much the same in character and intensity as the record obtained at the time of the recent Italian earthquake.

According to the bulletin, the bulletins of the first preliminary tremors began at 10:12:05 p.m. The second preliminary tremors were not well defined in the records. The strong motion lasted from 10:30 until after 11 o'clock, the whole earthquake having a duration of about one and a half hours. Apparently, says the bulletin, the origin is nearer Washington than in the case of the Italian earthquake, possibly 4000 miles distant.

Men Are Released

Later, in the Night Court, the two men were paroled in custody of their counsel until tomorrow and Magistrate House refused to cause the arrest of their friend, William J. Heney, who was charged by Oscar with having thrown the bulletins during the fight.

Lightning Strikes Her Wedding Ring

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Jan. 23.—Struck by lightning in January, Michigan's usual month of snow and blizzards, was the odd fate besetting Mrs. Nellie Bailey of Emmett Township early this morning. Mrs. Bailey was weighing butter in a well-house when lightning, the first of several strokes to be noticed generally here, struck her wedding ring, burned its path up her arm and left her unconscious on the stone floor. Entering a cupboard, the fluid then demolished one jar and departed. Mrs. Mulley's condition is critical.

At Leipsic, Mich., lightning struck a barn, destroying it with nine head of cattle.

Races Against Flood to Wed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Cupid won another race. This time it was a handicap with the recent floods in California as the obstacle.

Ben C. Holt of Stockton, one of the largest manufacturers of the San Joaquin valley, made the race, urged on by Cupid. He has just been married here to Miss Emma F. Williams of Denver. This afternoon he and his bride left for their home in the West.

The date was fixed and Holt had made his arrangements to reach Washington in ample time for the wedding. Miss Williams returned from Paris to become a bride. But

No Extra Session of Congress Later Than August 1

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Senator Bankhead of Alabama tonight expressed the belief that the extra session of Congress to be called by Mr. Taft would not last longer than August 1.

"That seems to be the general idea among Republicans with whom I have talked," he said. "None of us desires to remain here during the hot days of August."

"Will the Democrats frame a minority tariff bill, instead of merely offering amendments?" was asked.

"Our party will have a bill of its own," he replied.

UNABLE TO TELL OF CRIME

R. C. Fitzpatrick In Dazed Condition for Several Days Before His Death.

STRUCK DOWN AS HE SLUMBERED IN CHAIR

"I Was Hit," He Said, But Was Too Severely Injured to Give Description of Who Hit Him.

Rodger C. Fitzpatrick, proprietor of the saloon at the northeast corner of Tenth and Franklin streets, was struck down in his place of business by the hand of an assassin late Monday night, and police investigation of his death was only begun yesterday.

Fitzpatrick lay in the night watch, the weather was stormy, and at midnight and closing time there was business dull. There is no bar in the saloon, mounted barrels serving the purpose, and Fitzpatrick sat down in a chair near the door, tilted back against the wall and began to doze. He was half asleep when he heard a stealthy footstep at his side, and then a blunt weapon descended on the left side of his head, striking him to the floor. The assassin struck and blinded by blood and dazed by the two blows, the prostrate saloonkeeper was all but unconscious.

you to distract me? You know without asking me, Kit, that I want you, and if I didn't I wouldn't be always telling you so.

You say that you have made me something which you are sending, and you can just bet I'll wear it. Anything that those little hands of yours made for me will be far more precious than anything that money can buy, and I would much rather have it so don't you ever feel yourself about my giving it away. You knew when you said in your letter if I didn't like it that I could give it away that I would never do that.

You say you don't get credit for being honest and true. If I didn't give you credit for it you don't think that I would worry so about how you are getting along, do you? It is good, and lots of it, Kit, because I know how you have been just a little worried lately.

Yours, PHIL

October 3, 1908

Dear Kit: I just received the 10 o'clock mail yesterday letter of the 25th ultimo, which is a very unhappy and unsatisfactory letter, and you can imagine how it makes me feel. I know that you have been very patient and have had hard times, Kit, and it worries me all the time. You know as well as I do that I mean right, Kit, and all I ask of you is to be the same good girl you have always been just a little worried lately.

You have waited too long, Kit, to give up now, and while, as you say, you are free to go out with as many fellows as you want to, you won't do it because I am trusting you and working for you. I have given up everything I ever told you, Kit, and it was worth it, for what you have done for me in return.

I know that this country must come to the subsidizing of a merchant marine. A single hostile shot would have sent those foreign colliers back home at any period in the battleship's cruise, and the United States could not have hired another one.

"We spend $60,000,000 for buying the Panama site, and we will spend up to a billion if necessary to complete the building of the ditch there, and it's just as well that we will give all other ships free access to it as we do our own because we have not any ships to send through otherwise."

"With the completion of the canal we will have a market for billions of merchandise if we have ships to carry it, and if we don't the foreign ships will come on to us through the canal and carry back through it just what they want to buy of us, and won't take other stuff we want to sell at all."

Wireless Saves Scores of Lives When Steamship Florida Rams the Republic

HORROR OCCURS IN THE ATLANTIC Fog Delays Rescue Work

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—After more than fourteen hours of great suspense, from the time the wireless telegraph aboard the White Star liner Republic reported early in the morning that the ship had been rammed and was sinking about twenty-six miles southwest of the Nantucket lightship, the last word from the scene of the disaster was flashed by wireless late tonight that the passengers and crew were safe, but the Republic had been abandoned and had gone down.

The Republic was east bound from New York to Mediterranean port and was groping her way at half speed through the fog when, without warning, the Florida of the Lloyd Italian line, west bound from Naples to New York, loomed up in her path.

Rammed Amidships

A moment later the Florida struck the Republic, a crushing blow almost amidships, and when the vessels parted the sea poured into the hold of the Republic through a ragged wound in her side and drowned the fire in the boiler room, and soon flooded the engine room. The stokers had to flee for their lives from between decks.

Compartments Closed

Promptly the water-tight compartments were closed and the science of modern shipbuilding held true, for the ship was kept afloat for many hours and not a life was lost as the result of the collision.

On both ships the officers and crews had a difficult task in calming the passengers, thrown in a wild panic by the crash of the vessels while most of them were asleep in their berths.

In all there were 1900 souls aboard the two vessels, and their fate was in jeopardy until the extent of the damage was learned.

The Florida almost immediately disappeared in the fog.

The Republic, with her engine room flooded, was helpless and those aboard did not even know the identity of the ship which had dealt their vessel a death blow in the dark.

Florida to Rescue

Soile dependence for aid rested upon the wireless, the once doubted invention of "Wizard" Marconi, and the operator sent broadcast his appeals for aid.

There were responses from many sides and it was only a matter of a few hours for some of the vessels who had received the call to reach the scene of the collision.

But the black fog hindered and harassed them, and even with the guidance of the wireless and the further aid of the submarine fog bells, another marvelous invention with which modern liners are equipped, they groped hopelessly and at great peril to themselves for hours in a vain effort to locate the sinking Republic.

In this hour of peril succor came from an unlikely source.

The fate of the vessel which had rammed the Republic was believed to have been worse than their own by those aboard the Republic, but out of the fog with her bow twisted and broken crawled the Florida.

Crew Sticks to Ship

Quickly all the passengers were transferred from the Republic to the Florida.

The bulkheads of the water-tight compartments were under a severe strain, but Captain William I. Seaby and his crew refused to quit their ship.

The Florida would not proceed without them and stood for almost twelve hours beside the Republic, until the climbing water forced the crew to the boats.

All went aboard the Florida except Captain Seaby and the crew of his ship.

They waited until the Republic sank out of sight to be buried forever beneath the sea, and then accepted the aid of the captain of the Florida.

The Florida, crowded to the decks with her own passengers and those from the sunken vessel, was guarded by the Baltic, La Lorraine and the Lusitania.

She is badly damaged, but her captain believes that he can make New York safely, and started on the 200-mile journey before midnight.

Baltic Conveys Florida

On the trip the Florida will be attended by the Baltic, ready at the first sign of distress to take over the passengers of the Republic and Florida.

It is expected that the Florida will reach New York about 7 o'clock tomorrow night.

From out of the fog-clothed sea early in the day came the first wireless message announcing that the Republic, with 181 souls aboard, had been rammed by an unknown vessel and was sinking.

The message was sent to the four winds—"crippled vessel"—an intangible but appealing call for aid.

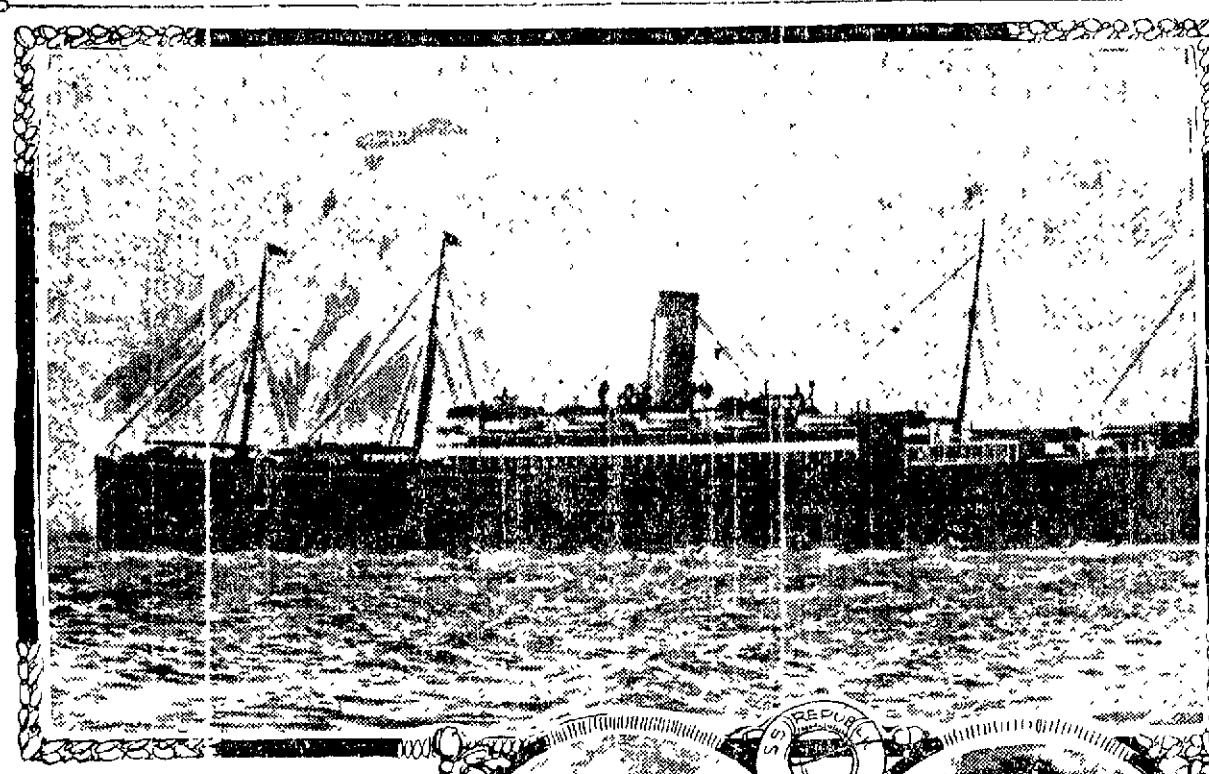

And the four winds took up this cry of distress, carried it along, and soon the other waves were vibrating with replies.

Wireless Sends General Alarm

Wireless stations on land and ships at sea, within the wireless zone of the Republic sent back word that help was on the way.

The land stations sent out messages searching the sea for ships within reach of the Republic, and one of the

RAILROAD'S RATES TOO HIGH

SANTA FE SUED FOR COLLECTION OF TARIFF

Brass Bed Completed. Costs More to Ship Than Does Raw Material of Which It Is Made.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—Interstate Commerce Commissioner Lane temporarily suspended the hearing of the railroad switching case today in order to hear a complaint from the Rudgeman-McCo against the Santa Fe Railroad for the collection of a high rate on brass tubing. James F. Lally, vice-president of the firm, asserted that his concern, which manufactured brass beds, must ship its raw material by water because the railroads company imposes a less rate on comparatively finished brass beds than on the materials of which they are made.

Another passenger, whose name does not appear on the list, is James B. Connally, writer of sea stories who was with the United States fleet when it started its world-circling cruise but was later ordered from the battleships because the officers discovered his object in accompanying the cruise and were unwilling to be written about. Mr. Connally was on his way to Gibraltar to rejoin the fleet on its homeward trip by permission of President Roosevelt.

Others in the List

General Brayton Ives, president of the Metropolitan Trust company of this city and a director in numerous railroads and financial institutions, was a passenger.

Other prominent passengers were Prof. John F. Coulter, Dr. and Mrs. David S. Cowles, Alexander S. Bell, Count Respol, Rev. J. Ward, Dr. A. Wager, Captain R. A. Ehrenfond, and Samuel P. McGehee.

Archbishop Burchell, of Montreal, was on his way to Rome and Victor Narvay, of Coch-Beher, India, was on the last half of a journey around the world.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hover, of Connecticut, were making the start of an around the world automobile tour. Their trip was to cover 100,000 miles, their automobile was not taken abroad the Republic, but was to be shipped to them on another vessel.

Republic Valued at $1,500,000

The Florida belongs to the Lloyd Italian Steamship Company and was bringing 900 passengers from Italian ports to New York. She is a 6000-ton vessel, but has no wireless telegraph apparatus.

At the offices of the White Star Line it was stated that the Republic had, as nearly as could be ascertained, 761 passengers and crew on board. This included, it was said, 250 first and 211 steerage passengers, while the officers, crew and steamer employees numbered about 300.

White Star Line officials said this afternoon that the Republic was valued at $1,500,000. The International Mercantile Marine Company carries its own insurance. The Republic being only a cruising steamer, she carried a cargo worth not more than $60,000, it was said. No one connected with the company could estimate the value of 500 tons of supplies consigned to the United States fleet in the Mediterranean.

MRS. ATHERTON CONFESSES LOVE FOR YARDE-BULLER

EDINBURGH, Jan. 23.—Mrs. Atherton was compelled to testify in the sitting divorce case this afternoon. She submitted to a humiliating examination, in which she was compelled to admit that her real age is 35 and confessed to misconduct with Captain Yarde-Buller, Lord Churston's son, while her husband was suing her for divorce.

Mrs. Stirling and Miss Atherton entered the court yesterday, the former exchanged scathing glances. Miss Atherton was radiantly beautiful. She wore a brown velvet dirndl gown and a huge Gainsborough hat with brown ostrich plumes, a costly sable stole and a wonderful necklace of pearls which fell to her waist. Mrs. Stirling's gown was of denure black lining laid bare to the waist.

When Mrs. Atherton returned to the court this morning she said: "You were in love with Yarde-Buller throughout your married life."

When Mrs. Atherton appealed to the judge against answering the question, she induced Yarde-Buller to promise to marry her if Atherton divorced her, and misconducted herself with the captain.

BENNETT'S ALLEGED DAUGHTER TO SUE FOR RECOGNITION IN N. Y.

(By VANCE THOMPSON).

PARIS, Jan. 23.—Mme. Camille Clermont has fully decided to carry on her battle against James Gordon Bennett for the right of her daughter, Juliette Jacqueline Shetler, to bear his name. Though the French tribunal has held that Article 340 of the French code, which forbids all attempt on the part of an illegitimate child to establish her paternity, thoroughly protected Bennett in France from responsibility. Madame Clermont's lawyers now have decided to take the case into the United States courts, since Bennett is an American citizen.

At a consultation held this afternoon they advised that immediate action be taken. The French court did not question the girl's paternity, merely stating that Bennett had provided for the child and paid a sufficient sum for her education. Madame Clermont would leave immediately for New York where she awaits a letter from Juliette, Bennett's daughter, who is employed on a farm in Canada. In her last letter Juliette said to her mother,

"Since he does not want to be known as my father, I can make my living in the world if he dislikes me so much, though I have never injured him, nor did anything but send him my love once a year on his birthday. I do not want his name or his money."

CRAFT LAUNCHED AT CRYER WORKS

Is Model Passenger Launch
Built and Equipped for Utility and Comfort.

The launching of the gasoline launch "Duchess," yesterday noon, was a big success. About 200 people were present and promptly on the tick of 12:30 the boat slipped her fastenings and, amid a hearty cheer from the spectators, rolled out of the workshop. A huge volume of water shot into the air when the "Duchess," as though suddenly endowed with life, slid gracefully into the waters of the estuary.

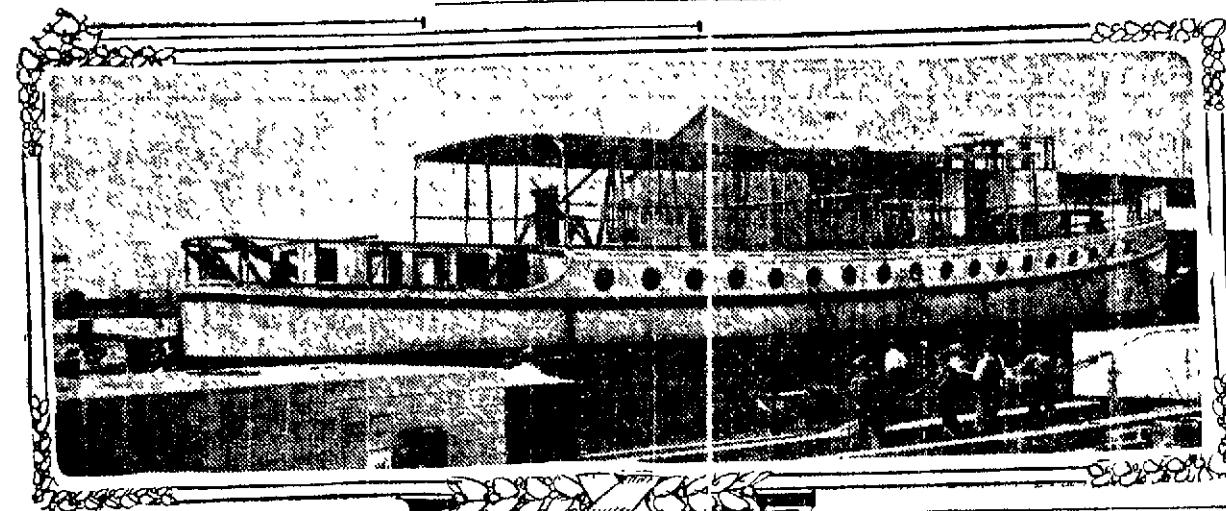

The "Duchess," apparently, was much pleased with her change of life, and as she floated and bobbed about on the clear water the waves gradually dwindled to ripples, and they in their turn faded away until the surface of the water was again in its placid, calm condition.

Little Miss Olive Cryer, the 13-year-old daughter of William Cryer, the builder, broke the bottle of wine at the bow as the boat slipped into the water. And it was given her a full quart bottle of sparkling champagne. The pride has taken a charming appearance as she stood on the scarf, waiting with suppressed excitement for the important moment, the bottle held suspended in the air and her face aglow with combined pride of the occasion and excitement of the moment.

A Model Craft

The craft is a model of fine workmanship, and the builder, William

GRACEFUL AS A SWAN THE "DUCHESS" SLIPS OFF HER WAYS INTO THE WATER

Cryer, can well be proud of his work. The lines are graceful and the launch rides the water as proudly as any duchess in real life might sweep across a ballroom.

The boat was designed and built in the Cryer Boat Company's works for the Lauritzen Bros., who will place her on the run between Rio Vista and Sacramento as a passenger boat, where they now have three other boats similar to the "Duchess" in operation.

The length of the boat over all is 85 feet, with a 15-foot beam. A 125-horsepower Atlas gasoline engine will be installed. An auxiliary 12-horsepower electric engine is already installed and will be used for lighting and pumping purposes.

One of the beauties of the construction is in the contrivance whereby one man can easily operate the engine and the steering gear. The principle is the same as that used on the motorboats.

Description of Decks

The boat has two decks. The lower is divided into four sections.

There is a special section to be fitted up in the aft for Oriental passengers, which constitutes a large part of the traffic.

The forward section is to be fitted up as a ladies' parlor. The seats in the ladies' section will be finished in green plush and all the possible comforts will be installed. The apartment is spacious and will be arranged, every inch of space having been utilized to advantage.

A stairway leads from the parlor to the upper deck, which enables the women to pass to and from the upper deck without making use of the main staircase.

The gentlemen's section occupies the middle of the boat and is, of course, the largest apartment. There is a buffet bar and it is very unique in construction.

The engine room is between the ladies' parlor and gentlemen's section.

Part of this space will be used as a lunch counter for the accommodation of the passengers.

The upper deck will be covered on the top, but open on all the sides.

There will be seats along the sides and down the center. The pilot house will sit well forward and will be entirely enclosed.

NEWS OF BERKELEY, ALAMEDA

SCANDAL RENDS BERKELEY HIGH

Arrest of Drake and Davis
Disclose Deplorable Conditions in Big School.

BERKELEY. Jan. 23.—With the arrest of Daniel Drake, manager of the Berkeley High school football team, and Homer Davis, on charges made by the father of John Miller, president of the Associated Students of the local high school, the scandal which has arisen out of the action of the school administration in dismissing Gerald McKinley and others for what was then being stirred up. The charges placed against the boys is that of disturbing the peace, but behind the events which led up to their arrest is disclosed suspicion and dishonesty which has been the result of conditions in the high school.

Brands Classmate a Crook

The immediate cause of the trouble between Davis and Miller lay in Miller's branding his classmate a crook. The fact that Davis is in high school on probation as the result of a scandal over stolen examination papers in which he was implicated, gave an added sting to the taunt of the president of the associated students.

Drake, who is manager of the last football team, has been engaged in petty bickering with Miller for some weeks over bills contracted for football supplies, which Miller declared should have been submitted to him before they were incurred. According to the boys under arrest, he has continually made trouble and cast humiliations concerning irregularities in the handling of the funds.

Clash With Miller, Sr.

Last night the two boys decided to hit it out with him and informed him that they would call to discuss the matter. Miller is the son of W. I. Miller, assistant Pacific Coast manager of the Western Association Company, with offices in the Merchants' Exchange Building in San Francisco. His home is at 2315 Parker street. Young Miller, who is a clever talker and head of the debating society in the high school, has avoided an open clash with the boys. When they called last night he was not to be seen and the two boys went to see Miller, Sr. They insisted on being allowed to talk it over with the son direct, and in the altercation which followed, Miller threw them both out and afterwards had them arrested on charges of disturbing the peace. The boys declare that he attacked them and that they are prepared to swear out warrants charging him with battery.

Theft of Examination Papers

Davis was placed on the tapis some time ago for purloining some examination papers in order to pass the exam in senior physics. He was tried in the affair and brought before the high school committee. He was at first suspended and was allowed to return to school on probation. The affair was not made public at the time but was the initial move which led to the general investigation resulting in the expulsion of Congressmen Edward McKinley's son and his companion, William Stone and Robert Morrissey, and to the suspension of Wallace Scott, for stealing books at the high school.

The trouble between Drake and Miller is also closely connected with the investigation which is being conducted by the superintendent of schools and the Board of Education. Enclosed in Superintendent's report to the board on the subject of the expulsion of the students for stealing books, the following paragraph appears:

"There is a strong suspicion among several members of the school faculty that there have been numerous instances during the past two years where students entreated with the heads of their classes and with funds arising from student activities have unlawfully retained portions thereof and have failed to make an accounting thereof."

Those Football Supplies

Miller, who is credited with having raised the student debt since being made president of the Associated Students, claimed the privilege of countersigning all bills contracted for football supplies. Finding that suits and other articles had been obtained by Manager Drake for the team, without his knowledge, he declared that Drake should have to foot the bill, or that each individual member of the team would have to pay for his own suit. The bickerings and counter-charges arising out of this trouble is resolved in the affair last night. It is admitted that Drake's management has been the most economical and the best for many years.

Players Stand by Drake

The members of the football team are highly incensed over the treatment which Drake has received, and are threatening vengeance upon Miller. It is feared that more trouble may arise, as sides are being taken at the high school and the scandal is spreading. An occasion of bad feeling among the students is likely.

Many of the students are taking sides against Miller for the statement he is alleged to have made against Prof. Morris C. James, the principal of the school. Professor James is well liked by the student body, and the fact that he has many times paid students for the work of his own pocketbook is invariably stated by every boy who has addressed him to Miller is alleged to have criticized him in bitter terms on several occasions.

Notified last night of the predicament of Drake and Davis, Principal James appeared at the police station and bailed the two students $100 each.

Davis lives at 3121 Telegraph avenue and Drake at 3121 1/2 Center street.

FRUITVALE, MELROSE & SUBURBS

JINX ON TRAIL OF LUCKLESS YOU

There Is No Joy In Lim You's Heart Since Fate Robbed Him of His Pets.

FRUITVALE. Jan. 23.—Coca again is the jinx on Lim You's heart. The latest crop of misery in the Oriental laundryman's cup of woes has caused him to burn thousands and thousands of paper of prayers at the Joss house in an effort to appease the wrath of the petrified jinx.

Not long ago You was arrested on a charge of selling lottery tickets. A few days later a red-hot iron dropped on the roof of his laundry, which fell in. Last week he was the object of an assault by a Portuguese流氓, who hit the Chinese man's face with a stone. That same day Lim was elected from a Fruitvale-avenue real estate office for translating Chinese profanity into English. The reason of this was caused by a request to pay his rent twice.

Sorrowful New Year

These calamities have been visited upon the head of You. But You being a man composed with the awful visitation of dire we which has caused his New Year to be filled with sorrow.

Three pet elephants which had been brought over from China to do his laundry were drowned during the rain storm Friday night. His back yard became flooded to the nose. In the crop and garage and two men who had been tending them for the New Year holidays were sacrificed.

The team Lim kept out to add to the doings of misfortune was sold out instead of hunting more prayers. Lim has sworn vengeance against the jinx and has sworn the curse of his ancestors at the Chinese devil.

PRESBYTERIAN BOYS FORM A CADET CORPS

BERKELEY. Jan. 23.—A charter has just been received for a cadet company to be known as the First Corps Cadets. California's Little Infantry, composed of the young men of the First Presbyterian Church of Berkeley. The company will be officially mustered in within a few weeks with a muster of fifty boys ranging from 14 to 21 years old. The company was organized under the direction of R. S. Hart and Edward Koenig.

The boys who have already signed the roll are Irwin Anderson, Sheldon Lowery, William Beatt, Leavenworth, Herbert Tweedie, Hal Townsend, Arthur Koenig, Harry Howard, Alex Black, John Coleman, Harry Davis, John McFee, Edwin Shumard, Edwin Gembry, Carl Rath, William K. Kretschmer and Joe Lowry.

WILL OPEN PARK ON LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

ALAMEDA. Jan. 23.—Plans are being formulated by F. N. Delaney, President of the Park and Playgound Commission, and Supt. of Schools W. C. Wood, for the opening of Lincoln Park on the 100th anniversary of Lincoln's birthday. This will be the first formal opening of any of the playgrounds, and it is the plan of those interested to have a well arranged program for the day. Lincoln Park was formerly the old Thomson property which the city recently bought. It is located on High street, near Santa Clara avenue.

WHIPS THE HAIL AND SAVES ROOF

Phillip Riley Protects Home Against Enemy as Big as Elephants.

ELMHURST. Jan. 23.—According to Phillip Riley, a real estate man of this place, the hailstones which fell in Alameda yesterday morning were as large as pigeon eggs. It Riley's notion of the size of the stones is slightly exaggerated, under the circumstances he could hardly be blamed if he had thought they were as large as elephants.

It was shortly after 7 o'clock and still dark when Riley was awakened by a splash of water on his face. He sat up in bed, and "Hatched." The sound of dripping water was plainly audible, and soon Riley was holding a pillow over his head to keep out of the wet.

From Bed Into Water

Riley stepped on the floor and his foot went into an inch of water. For a moment the startled man thought the flood had burst him from Sacramento and overflowed his room. After he had had a lamp, a hump, and a blanket, he realized that the roof was leaking, and breaking through the window, he stuck his head out and quickly drew it in again with sufficient evidence that he had made a mistake and that the stones were of no ordinary size, etc.

FRUITVALE SCHOOL BOYS TO ORGANIZE BILL LEAGUE

FRUITVALE. Jan. 23.—School boys of this district are looking for the formation of a little baseball league in Fruitvale. There are three teams at the present time and one more is wanted before the league can be officially organized. The ball will be played this afternoon between the Americans and the Stars of Fruitvale. Both teams are composed of boys from 12 to 16 years of age. The Stars team won by a score of 9 to 8. Homer made a home run and Mink and Brooks two-base hits. Bold made a three-base hit. Jameson was up late. The following is the up-to-date:

FRUITVALE POSITION STARS
Brooks ... First base ... W. Jacobs
Renne ... Second base ... N. E. Gold
Mills ... Third base ... H. Gold
Shortstop ... Shortstop ... Mink
Wittner ... Pitcher ... Parker
F. Lushar ... Right field ... Bookbinder
Friedrichson ... Center field ... A. Jacobs
Jas. Holt ... Left field ... Silver

SHOVELS WHILE IT PEELS THEM

With might and main Riley worked with his spade shoveling the salt on the roof, paying no attention to the frozen icicles that pelted his unprotected head. H. Graham, who was passing by, saw his friend work and, getting another shovel, joined him. In a few minutes the roof was cleared and the house saved. No wonder Riley says the stones were as big as goose eggs.

CONSTABLE CARROLL'S NEW METHOD OF JUSTICE

FRUITVALE. Jan. 23.—Armed with shotgun, James Johnson and Harry Robison, two 10-year-old boys, went hunting for canary birds in Alameda this morning, and succeeded in so doing that they shot their victim, the canary bird, with a single bullet. The boy was captured by the police department, who notified the result that the canary birds were half-grown before their game birds were half-grown.

When Constable Tom Carroll arrived on the scene he found two boys so small that the gun they carried would not fit in his hand. He then took the boys to the police station and put them in jail.

HIGH PRIVATE EASILY WINS LISSAK HANDICAP

FIRESTONE IS SEVEN LENGTHS
IN FRONT OF DORANTE, WINNERS'
STABLEMATE FOR SECOND PLACE

Smiley Corbett
Quits Early in Race

Ketchenike Proves
Good Repeater
At 9 to 10

By LEE DEMIER

OUT at Williams Park duck pond yesterday afternoon a person would have had to be pretty hard of hearing to fail to note the deep, continued and disgusted groans after the running of the Lissak Handicap, at 1 mile, in which many of the eligibles for the club's entries faced the starter. Smiley Corbett, because of his recent disastrous performances in good fields at but a slightly shorter distance, was chosen as favorite, opening at 6 to 5 and closing at 3 to 2. He wound up like a 10,000 to 1 shot, running under the wire absolutely last, with his long, scraggly tail stuck straight up in the air like a signal. It was sure body blow to the talent.

His Ability Doubted

Some heavy bettors doubted Smiley Corbett's ability to go the route, but they failed to land on the winner, who turned up in Forsythe's classy colt, High Private, but went to President Williams' entry, Firestone and Bellwether. The entry was second choice in the betting throughout. Firestone made up a lot of ground to be second, while Corbett, coupled with High Private, finished with a rush and dropped into the third hole. Arasae and Eight Wool dodged the issue.

How High Private Won

When Starer Holtman slipped the rubber, High Private was the first to get going, but the long tanked Corbett soon headed him and took the track. Corbett, however, was never able to get out in front of his field as far as usual, and many wise horsemen knew that he would get nothing when the half-miles had been run. Corbett led well up to the far turn, where Scoville, who rode a splendidly judged race, cut out a wrap he had on High Private and the colt quickly turned the lead and held it to the end. High Private was two lengths to the good entering the stretch, but he was menaced by Firestone, who started and won by just one length. Firestone acted nasty at the post and refused to make his running until straightened out for home.

Victory Not Popular

The victory of High Private was not a popular one. It proved conclusively that some things, either Bubbling Water, the filly which took High Private's measure recently, is the fastest three-year-old in training at the track over five-eighths of ground; Jockey Lee, who rode High Private on that day, is about the poorest pig skin artist at the track, or else Forsythe refuses to let his horses win unless at a price. On the day when High Private was beaten by Bubbling Water, the colt was odds on to win and quit in the middle of the five-eighths of ground. But so, so, so, for opening at 4 to closing at 5 to 6 and as high as 7 to 8, one in many books, the colt was never in very serious danger of not getting the bulk of the coin.

Was Not Himself

Corbett did not appear to be his usual self yesterday. On going to the post he looked unusually gaunt. He was not very full of run either, and quit at a shorter distance than usual. If he is a shorter distance than he lines up, and where he finishes. He is one of the fastest horses in training and should have done better than finish last, although he has the reputation of being a hound.

Cake Walk for Roseben

In the Cockrell Handicap, over the favorite course, Roseben simply had a cake-walk to win the colt. He lot Sevenfull take the track for awhile, but came home alone by five lengths in front of Rose Queen. Sevenfull was third, and Lisaro, the only other starter, last.

First Race

Van Dusen, rated Semper Fiddle to perfection in the opening scramble, and when Gib C., the pacemaker, cried enough, came on and under a fierce drive outgamed Enamour, winning by a short head. Rose Queen finished with a tremendous burst of speed and was the bang-up third. In another jump would have won.

Second Race

Johnson's sweet filly Sonja was right on edge, and, responding gamely under a drive, shook off her field in the stretch and won the second from the fast tire Old Mexico by half a length. Indian Maid was practically left at the post. She gamely closed an immense gap, but had to be content with the show.

Third Race

Hush Money, at 8 to 1, furnished the surprise in the third. Fountain's gelding left his field when straightened for home as if they were tied and won in a romp. Grey Owl shot across from Cayenne Cora, which was running over horses at the end. Ranbridge, the colt, although hard-riden all the way, dogged it when the pitch came.

Fifth Race

St. Avon shook off his field at the hair pin turn on the fifth race with something in reserve. Billy Myer and Doctor Beckham were in close quarters all through the stretch. Both closed gamely and the former scored a decision for the place.

Public Choices to the Front

With the heaviest rains that have fallen in many years throughout California, the "King of sports" maintains its strong prestige, despite the elements, at the beautiful though thoroughly soaked Williams Park racing course. Never before kept up such a high average as the present season, and never have so many unfavorable conditions arisen as during this year, that one marvels at the exand gambling house aid will turn the same into a money pit and voted as a recent meeting of the Town Trustees to spend $10,000 each year in advertising the resort and try to make it what it was, "America's Monte Carlo."

With New York's share of heart and the wailing for the return of the sport at New Orleans and Hot Springs surely California's people should take notice and keep the "Old Giant," who has no superior as a track conditioner. Favorite and second choices accounted for most of the winners, and since the unpredictable rainfall has been drenching us more public choices have won than in history of the turf, so much so that each cut-in new faces seem to be coming up to offer for the players to pick from, and many a book roll has gone a-glimmering and the buyers have experienced a rough journey.

The mid-week feature, the McGibber Handicap, named in honor of the two popular brothers who are closely associated at the local game, was a mere cakewalk for Charlie Bowring, owner of his Colonel Jim, who romped in ahead of Noddy and Clamer. In all it was a week full of interest and the best of sport.

California's Greatest Classic

California's greatest classic will be the feature of this week's sport at the popular Williams Park course. This studio, which is the richest offering west of New York, having $10,000 added money, is looked upon as this State's biggest event, and is the two-day specialty of the West Coast, or, in fact, the Pacific.

Following the Toronto meeting, the racing moved to Montreal, where at the Blue Plateau stakes, the sport will continue from June 2 until June 29. Hamilton comes next from June 2 until July 3, and Port Erie, across from Buffalo, is scheduled from July 5 to 23. Windsor, the track opposite Detroit, is the other one on the circuit, and its first dates are from July 30 until Aug. 1.

Retrogressing back to all these tracks, we find them taking them to the final closing at Windsor in October, late enough to race in such a latitude. Which gives that country continuous racing throughout the summer season.

CHILD LABOR LAW IN LIME LIGHT

Woman Champion Lays Bare What She Claims Is Class Legislation.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—That the American Federation of Labor is not in accord with the work of the legislators against child labor was thwarted legislation in their behalf in the state of Louisiana was the charge made today by Miss Jean M. Gordon, the Louisiana delegate to the child labor conference. The statement was made in an address entitled "The Forward Step in Louisiana," before the assembled guests in the banquet hall of the Auditorium Hotel.

Miss Gordon intimated that the bill finally passed by the Louisiana Assembly, which fixed the ten-hour day as the period of work for woman and child, was drafted by men who were working at the instigation of the manufacturers.

Has Lost Faith

"I am a unionist," declared Miss Gordon, "but I have lost all faith in the assistance which might come from the Federation of Labor. It thwarted our plans in Louisiana and seemed to have drafted the bill governing the limit of work day at the instigation or for the interest of the manufacturer."

Public schools of the present system were characterized as "developing the bulk at the top of the child and letting the rest of him 'go to pot.' And mal-nutrition, anaemia and rickets were said to prevail among children who worked on farms, by Dr. Woods Hutchinson of New York, who is here attending the conference.

Schools Deteriorating

"Pedagogists say they would like to reduce the time devoted to purely pedagogical training of children in the schools by one-half of two-thirds, and that they would teach the child as much as under the present system," he said. "The rest of the child's time should be spent on the playground, or learning gardening, or in the industrial departments of the schools."

"We are too slow in getting away from the old-time idea of schooling, which was calculated to turn children out as gentlemen or priests. The average child requires less of the book training and culture and more things to fit him for his life work."

NEW POWER COMPANY HAS BEEN INCORPORATED

Articles of incorporation have been filed by the Central Oakland Light and Power Company, which is to have its headquarters in this city. The capital stock is $1,250,000. Employment will be given to fully five hundred men when the offices and plant of the company are erected.

The site has not as yet been selected for the plant, but within a short period, about the middle of the year, work of laying the conduits, excavations and the erection of the plant will commence. Charles L. Poyal, representing the company, said last night that work will begin as soon as a site is selected.

The incorporation of the company is the outcome of the attempt of the Metropolitan Electric Company to establish a light and power company in Oakland.

The board of directors consists of the following: A. M. Hunt of Berkeley, electrical and hydro engineer; James Fisher of Berkeley, formerly with the Mutual Electric Light and Power Company of San Francisco; James K. Moffitt of Oakland; Mountford S. Wilson of San Francisco, a trustee of the Stanford estate; M. D. Levinson, a capitalist of San Francisco; C. N. Seal of San Francisco, connected with the Tevis interests; and F. G. Cartwright of San Francisco, president of the Consumers' Electric Light and Power Company.

W. F. HERRIN HAS HAD HIS SALARY RAISED TO $100,000 A YEAR

THE KNAVE

HOW CHAMPAGNE FLOWED FOR FLEET OFFICERS IN THE ORIENT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—William F. Herrin, chief counsel of the Harriman railroad system on this coast, will return home from New York and New Orleans in a few days with added financial laurels. Mr. Harriman has been paying him $80,000 a year since 1904. He has increased his salary to $100,000 per year and made him his confidential adviser in all his Illinois Central and Baltimore & Ohio affairs. With the new arrangement, Mr. Herrin is to go to New York every two months and confer with Mr. Harriman. This is said to mean eventually that Mr. Herrin will spend much of his time in Chicago and New York and that Peter F. Dunne will be given wider latitude on this coast as Herrin's chief assistant.

The leading topic of discussion among the local politicians during the week just closed has been the announcement made by Mayor Taylor to his friends and associates that he will not be a candidate for re-election to his present office next fall. The decision of the Mayor is said to have been the result of a demand by members of his family that he withdraw, for a while at least, from political activities. "When the ladies command we must obey," is the declaration of the gallant Doctor.

It is denied by Taylor's supporters that the declaration by District Attorney Langdon that he will oppose him has had any influence in shaping the Mayor's political course.

It is possible that the Mayor is merely conserving his forces to run for Governor two years hence. His decision to keep out of the local contest comes as a keen disappointment to his cabinet and particularly Private Secretary Harry McKernan and Supervisor Connolly, who had been looking forward to the continuance of their political power through the Mayor's re-election to office.

Fuzzy Wuzzy, like other poets, is somewhat fickle, and he may yet change his mind at his "city's call." A suggestion that his unesteemed rival, Dr. C. N. Ellinwood, might enter the lists for the Mayoralty would undoubtedly cause Fuzzy to don his armor again and join in the fray. Dr. Ellinwood is the administrator of the Dr. Lane benefactions, and it is said that Edward Robeson Taylor aspired, and sought by diplomatic arts, to secure that same office. To add to the lack of cordiality between the two doctors it is told that Ellinwood once criticised in caustic vein Dr. Taylor's poems and particularly his "The Resurrection." It is not believed that the breach thus widened will ever be spanned.

But the efforts to organize the Administration Party are being carried forward and it is rumored that the promoters of that movement are seeking to substitute John Ralph Jr. of the Mission for Taylor as their candidate for Mayor. The predictions relative to the success of this new movement are not flattering. The "push" report that overtures have been made to Harry Flannery to join in the efforts to prop up the cause, to furnish the enchiladas while McKernan and Connolly supply the patronage. As yet no remarkable spurt of enthusiasm has been recorded on the Flannery score. But the election is a long way off yet.

The so-called "Independent" Republican organizations of the last campaign have begun early to resurrect themselves. The Independent Republican Club of the Thirty-ninth district gave a banquet recently at "$1.25 a plate." The circular of invitation announced that "nothing political is intended at this banquet." About seventy-five sat at table with President Edwin McMurray acting as manager and toastmaster. It was announced that it was deemed advisable that the members get better acquainted, so that they might be prepared for concerted political action when the campaign opens.

Marshall Hale, formerly a member of the Executive Committee of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League, and its candidate for the nomination for Congress against E. A. Hayes, was a guest of honor. It was understood by others present that he is McMurray's candidate for Mayor and that the boss of the Thirty-ninth will shape his efforts to accomplish Hale's election.

Another feature of the banquet was the arrival of a messenger boy with a bundle of pamphlets entitled "Forty Reasons Why Assemblyman E. J. Callan Will Not Vote for George C. Perkins for United States Senator." As Perkins had already been returned to the United States Senate by a large majority vote of the Legislature, it was suggested that Callan had better go get another reason and make his total forty-one.

A similar feed was given by the "Independents" of the Thirty-fourth district, but who these statesmen have selected as their leader in job chasing has not yet been publicly announced. The banquet, however, is supposed to have nourished and stimulated their political ambitions.

The Lincoln-Roosevelt Leaguers are boasting that they have gained control of the Republican County Committee by decoying John T. Pitwell and John Butler, two of the members, into the League camp. That the control of the County Committee will be in the regular Republican organization, when it is wanted, there is no question, but in the interim of campaigns the Leaguers and other political bushwhackers are possibly entitled to such solace as they may gain by boasts and claims without foundation.

Some of the members of the Legislature from this city are much exercised over the decision of State Controller Nye to pay the Solons $10 a day for the first sixty days of the session, but that he will withhold the payment of the remaining $400 of the $1,000 compensation until the Legislature shall have completed its labors and adjourned. Some of the members were contemplating doing all sorts of things with that $400 which they wished paid in a lump sum at the end of sixty days. They even thought it would be a good idea to return to their homes on a vacation and leave the legislature to take care of itself or wait their pleasure and convenience.

One of San Francisco's leading citizens has been in our midst for over two weeks, after a protracted absence, and yet his presence has failed of notice by the local press. Adolph Spreckels arrived here from the East, but his coming was so quiet, so unostentatious, that but few, other than his friends, were aware of his arrival. Adolph is the most popular son of the late Claus Spreckels, multi-millionaire and "Sugar King." He is very fond of sports and has been essentially an indoor man, taking much pleasure with his horses, yachts and dogs. Adolph Spreckels has also been a successful business man and he is now reputed to be the richest member of that very wealthy family. Since his return to this city he has led a quiet life, visiting his downtown business office daily, and has moved about in public but little, although occasionally "taking a lemonade" with a friend or old acquaintance.

Adolph Spreckels has always been averse to notoriety, particularly of the newspaper variety, which he has studiously avoided. Although a somewhat harsh critic of the press, he came near being a newspaper proprietor himself, once remarking, a few days ago, "I would buy the thing myself, only it would be too much trouble."

While Adolph is leading a very placid life at present and his arrival home has passed unnoticed by the daily press, I will venture the prediction that before long his name will be seen in the headlines, and in large type, of the newspapers of this and other cities in relation to litigation that will attract the attention of the commercial and financial world. Adolph, who was once regarded by his father as the keenest business man of the family, and his advice frequently sought and acted upon, is possessed of the stubborn persistence and bulldog pertinacity which the elder Spreckels prided himself as being his characteristics.

Phelan, going to war with Japan, as reported in the dispatches from Washington, D. C., has excited an amused interest in this city. Phelan is politically ambitious and it is told that even his rhinocerotic hide has been punctured by his numerous recent defeats. He traces their cause back to the teamsters' strike and the order "Go to work or be clubbed" which followed the placing of policemen on the trucks, and both of which were credited to him, the then Mayor of San Francisco.

Phelan has denied and otherwise sought to discredit this charge made against him by the workingmen, but it will not do. It showed its head again when Phelan sought the complimentary vote of the Democratic minority in the State Legislature for United States Senator. Seven of the eight members from San Francisco gave his labor record and the same "go to work or be clubbed" as their principal reason for voting against him and for Harry Flannery for the ephemeral honor.

So Phelan is seeking to rehabilitate himself with labor by going to war with Japan. The laboring people indulge in a low and still discordant laugh whenever Jimmy's martial declarations are brought to their attention. They even advise that he be brevetted a Colonel and sent to the Land of the Chrysanthemum by the very next steamer leaving this port. Phelan will have to try again before he succeeds in placating the laboring element of this city.

The Anti-Japanese and Corean League of this city recently received a severe blow, and the resultant shock may lead to its undoing. The San Francisco Democratic and the Iroquois clubs have withdrawn from membership in the League, which not only means a loss to the latter of the wise counsel of the Democratic rump, as represented by the two organizations, but also dues aggregating nearly $5 a month.

This course on the part of the bolting Bourbons was considered at a special meeting of the clubs before action was taken. Possibly the most serious charge preferred against the Anti-Japanese League was that all it had accomplished to that date was the creation of a few fat-salaried jobs for a corresponding number of its specially favored members, and that its activities, otherwise, were confined to holding a mass meeting or two just prior to an election and inviting the candidates for office to occupy seats on the platform.

The members of the Democratic and Iroquois Clubs are relentless job chasers themselves, and as they have been unable to secure any of the good things in the gift of the Anti-Japanese League they thought it about time to secede.

The Democratic bolters, at their caucus, presented grave charges against P. H. McCarthy and Olaf Tveitmoe, two leaders of the Anti-Japanese League. It was alleged, averred and even declared that McCarthy and Tveitmoe take their noonday luncheons at a resort where the meal is prepared by two Japanese cooks. The growing fondness of the two leaders for culinary products was regarded as ominous and consequently viewed with alarm by the Bourbon chronic job chasers who threatened to memorialize the various trade councils and unions on the subject.

Oakland, and San Francisco as well, can tell the same story of how the famous fleet of Uncle Sam was entertained on the coast last May. There was champagne and flowers galore out here. In one night at the Fairmont hotel, over 2,000 bottles of wine were opened. During the same night an equal amount of wine was dispensed at the St. Francis hotel. Four thousand bottles of wine in one night in San Francisco was a record-breaker for Admirals and everybody in his command who had a position entitling him to be invited to participate of this expensive beverage.

In the ports of Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Peru, Evans and his officers had hospitality. They met all the dark-eyed leaders of South America. When they came to California they expected much from San Francisco and Oakland and the surrounding bay towns. They were not disappointed.

It is now a matter of history of how Evans and his command came, saw and conquered here last May.

But there was an end to expensive greetings on this coast. The fleet sailed away. It went to Manila, Japan and China. In the latter country the fleet had wine and other forms of good-fellowship. Some people in the Pacific Union Club of this city have just received a letter from one of the chief officers of the fleet telling of menu, edibles and drinkables and other things that the Chinese gave with open hand.

Mindful of the late Rear Admiral J. H. Coghlan and his "Hoch der Kaiser" expression, the American fleet officer has submerged his name.

But he consents to the publication of this portion of his letter to his Pacific Union Club friends:

"To do justice to a letter one needs to have leisure, and goodness knows there has been no leisure on this cruise.

"We are in pretty good shape and have survived the feasts and festivities without the acquisition of adipose tissue. As a matter of fact, we are pretty well down to fighting weight.

"Evidently the American naval officers' capacity for food and drink has been grossly misrepresented and overestimated. In China, at Amoy, the wine industries of the world, as well as the Chinese in charge of the reception to us, received a rude shock: for, on the last night of our entertainment there, it became known that there were upwards of 2000 cases of champagne remaining untouched. That is not saying how much was consumed.

"But, really, I don't think the Chinese had any kick coming on our lack of capacity; for any certain number of men who have been able to drink a quantity of champagne in a week which might be estimated on the basis of 2000 cases left unbroken, must have done their share. So it was everywhere.

"But in China perhaps there was a little greater incentive to drink than elsewhere; for, when one attends a Chinese dinner, he has to find employment somehow, and about the only way he can familiarize himself is to drink out of bottles, the contents of which came many miles from the Celestial Empire.

"One's olfactory nerves and the uninitiated membranes and nerve centers of the stomach require a strong stimulant to withstand the shock they are doomed to experience.

"Bird's-nest soup is perhaps the least objectionable of their dishes, and you get that early in the game. Some foreigners really get to like it very much, and I have no doubt that it is possible to cultivate a taste for it.

"Of course it is a perfectly clean, wholesome and nutritious food, but it is in bad company and the suspicion is always lurking about us as to whether or not it may have been one of the 'last year' varieties. One may have tasted the soup, we will say, just to show how recklessly brave he is; but when you reach the next course, I defy any man to do anything else than keep his nose to windward and drink copiously. This course will likely be shark fins and crab roe. Those 2000 extra cases did not seem an too much about this stage of the game. Next in order of delicacies will likely be a squid preparation. Then for a time you will be excused from devouring any more of the 'near-animal kingdom' and take a course in mushrooms and bamboo shoots. This is all edible just as long as you take it at its face value and don't let your mind go roving through those fertile fields that gave them birth and whence they came.

"Then, perchance, you branch off into hen fruit and are provided with an egg the meat of which is black. It is an egg all right and was laid in Confucius's time. The chickens of his day, not being race suicide theorists, did their duty. The supply largely exceeded the demand and so they conceived the idea of burying the eggs, making of the earth, as it were, a storehouse to provide for the lack of system in their progeny.

"So eggs several hundred years old will be provided at a feast of national importance. They have the refrigerator hatched egg of the present day beaten to an omelette.

"Then of course you have the shrimp in its various forms and usually wind up with a Li Hung Chang chop suey.

"On an occasion like this what can a man do but drink to be merry? And if we did our duty and felt confident all the while that we were creating a stringency in the wine markets of the world, it was a rude awakening to find that we had not come within 2000 cases of the small little corner in champagne that they had in Amoy.

"However, that is all an old story now."

In a separate letter this prominent fleet officer tells some club friends here that "We passed Singapore a week ago, and then had a couple of days' smooth steaming in the straits of Malacca with Sumatra to the southward and the principality of the Sultan of Johore on our right. Then we crossed the Bay of Bengal, passing the Nicobars and Andaman group of islands. These islands are inhabited by fierce and savage tribes of unknown origin and also by the collaccaia nidifica or fucifaga, which is the bird that is responsible for the edible bird's nests, also the great hamadryas ophiophagus elaps—and other things with poisonous names.

Call Back the Battleships.

The general staff of the United States Army has become suddenly concerned over the defenseless condition of the Pacific Coast should we become involved in a war with Japan, as is evidenced in a report just made to Congress. Japan is not named, but it is generally accepted that "the certain Oriental power" to which reference is made means that country.

The mistake of withdrawing the Atlantic battleship fleet from the Pacific and the ease with which Japan could gain a footing on the California coast and land within a month 100,000 men at the unprotected harbor of San Pedro and augment this hostile force to 300,000 a month later without opposition and establish a naval and military base there, from which it could not be dislodged, are pointed out in the report. What is more, the experts of the navy concur in the statement of the general staff that the western coast of the United States is, under present conditions, helplessly exposed to invasion by Japan unless the Atlantic battleship fleet in command of Admiral Sperry and now in the Mediterranean sea, is promptly ordered back to Pacific waters.

It is quite apparent to every observant citizen that the only possible source of friction with Japan or any other Oriental nation exists on this western coast of the country for the reason that the Pacific States are in closest touch with the Orient and most exposed to invasion by its people, to the much discussed baneful influences of their civilization and the alleged degenerating effects of their laborers on American occupations and industries. Moreover, this is the only part of the United States which is open to attack from such a foe in the event of war being declared. Indeed, in dealing with a nation like Japan, it is clearly foreseen that a descent might be made with an overwhelming armed force before any formal declaration of war was made, as was done on the Russian fleets at Chemulpo and Port Arthur in the late war with Russia. We should, therefore, be proof against surprise.

Now that the army and navy authorities are agreed that the Pacific Coast needs the defense which the Atlantic battleship fleet can give it, the President and Congress may be moved to order its return to Pacific waters and make suitable provision for its maintenance after it gets here. The cost of maintenance here cannot be any greater than when cruising at sea in other waters, and while dockage facilities on this coast are admittedly inferior to those on the Atlantic Coast, it is an undeniable fact that every vessel in the fleet when it visited our seaboard was accommodated without serious inconvenience to any one of them.

Passing of a Notable Pioneer.

With the demise of Joseph S. Emery, the founder of the town of Emeryville and one of its trustees, one of the most rugged of the pioneers which built up the great State of California, passed away. Until a short period before his death he was engrossed in the activities of life, although being of the advanced age of eighty-eight, he had passed the scriptural allotted term of life eighteen years ago.

But Emery, like a great many of the pioneers who cast their fortunes in the heyday of youth on the shores of the Golden State, was not made of ordinary clay. No one who was unacquainted with his career and who had no positive knowledge of his advanced age, would have suspected before he was stricken by mortal sickness, six weeks ago, that he had attained such an advanced age. A great physical frame, a splendid constitution, a clear intellect, an undying ambition and a rare capacity to meet the demands of a strenuous business life had preserved him so well that he was seemingly decades younger than the number of the actual years he had lived.

Emery's life was interwoven inseparably with the development of the State. He has left imperishable monuments in the works he was an active agent in constructing. As the contractor who built the United States Mint, as one of the projectors of the beautiful Mountain View Cemetery, as the founder of the town bearing his name and which is destined sooner or later to be incorporated in the city of Oakland, as the projector of the Amador Canal enterprise, which is now a part of and the foundation of the Standard Electric power plant—a part of the great system of the Bay Counties Electric Power Company—and of many other enterprises with which he was associated, Emery's memory will ever remain green. The Amador Canal which he planned and with his old-time associate, Abner Dibble, built for mining purposes, which promise it failed in a large measure to fulfill, through no fault, however, of his own, has since become the basis on which a great industry, entirely foreign to the one for which it was originally conceived, has been developed. Emery built better than he knew; and, like all of those living ahead of their time, sowed where others garnered the harvest. He was one of those good citizens who are always ranged on the side of law and order, as his services in the old Vigilante Committee of San Francisco of 1856 attested; and, although younger men have since come to the front and become more conspicuous in everyday and public affairs, his death is, in many respects, a distinctive public loss.

San Francisco has started a crusade against impoverished milk served to consumers. It has been established there that the milk before being served to consumers is shipped by the dairymen from one-fourth to one-sixth of its butter fat and sold through the agency of separators. When a consumer pays for pure and unskimmed milk as it is yielded by the milk cows he is entitled to it, and it is a fraud to serve him with anything inferior. The standard of purity set by the State law is altogether too low and everybody knows it, and, if the dairymen will not serve pure milk voluntarily, the standard should be raised high enough and the penalty fixed severe enough to compel them to do so. San Francisco is not the only sufferer from the practice of delivering to consumers impoverished milk. Consumers on this side of the bay have equal cause for complaint.

Although the milk cows of Alameda and other bay counties are up to their eyes in new grass in the pastures, the price of prime fresh butter is today 45 cents per pound, growing out of the pre-arranged method of the Produce Exchange to fix the daily retail market rate according to the highest bid for the day's receipts whether the lot put up at auction consists of only one box or one earload. The excuse given for present famine rates is, of course, that the floods have interrupted railroad travel and prevent shipments being made to the bay cities from the interior. But the excuse is so gaunt that anyone can see through it.

The prolonged storm seems to have given its final kick and the whole State will be grateful if that proves to be the fact.

AN ASIDE FROM THE WHITE HOUSE

POSSUM MAY APPEAL TO PEOPLE WHO HAVE NOT HEARD THE CALL OF JUNGLE.

—CHICAGO DAILY NEWS.

Admission of Territories.

The latest reports from Washington indicate that the bill for the admission of Arizona and New Mexico to separate statehood will surely pass the House of Representatives by a big majority at the present session, but that the Senate is uncertain and may, in all probability defeat the measure. The question is pertinent: Why should the admission of these two Territories which are qualified in every respect to receive the privilege of self-government be balked by the Senate? The two great parties represented in that august body pledged themselves in their respective platforms before the Presidential election to admit them. The Senate was as much bound by those party pledges as the House. Why then should the House fulfill the pledges of their respective parties and the Senate hesitate or decline? Party faith is as binding on one branch of Congress as it is on the other, if there are any virtues to party pledges. And when the Republican and Democratic National Conventions composed of their respective representatives solemnly favored the admission of each of these Territories to be admitted to the rights and privileges of self-governing States, the Senate was as firmly bound to respect the obligation assumed as was the House, irrespective of the fact that in the latter case the entire body was seeking popular support, while only a minority of the former body was concerned directly in the election.

If the Senate breaks faith, after the House keeps it on the statehood bills, the country at large will ask the reason why. If it does break faith, it will probably be due to the fact that it is opposed to disturb the sectional equilibrium—to make any concession which shall strengthen the influence of the West, through the admission of four more Western members to its body, and, to that extent, weaken the power and the influence which some of the effete New England and other Eastern States wield and have hitherto utilized solely for their own aggrandizement and against the vital interests and welfare of this section of the country. We are loathe to entertain the belief that the Senate will take such a contracted view of national development and national responsibilities. But the gaze of the nation at large will be riveted on the course the Senate will take on this statehood question and will hold every Senator accountable later for the way he votes on the sacred pledge given by his party before the late election was held.

Berkeley's new municipal wharf seems to have passed through a trial ordeal, and, although slightly disfigured, it is still in the ring of utility. But its experience simply emphasizes, however, the enormous advantage commerce has in a perfectly land-locked harbor like that of Oakland, where shipping and wharves are perfectly secure, no matter what quarter the gale may come from. The water front of Berkeley is unfortunately, like that of San Francisco, exposed to the action of wind and waves from both quarters whence our periodic gales spring.

NOTE AND EXCERPT

The chief difference between the Armada bridges and the Armada itself is that the Armada bridges are built up.

Boston is taking great pride in the fact that Edgar Allan Poe was born there. It is noticed that there is nothing in Mr. Poe's prose or verse expressing joy over that circumstance.

The 100 percent increase of the Congressional salary to $6,000 a year does not seem to have caused the emergence of some of the members to get rich quick on side deals.

A recent number of the Washington Knickerbocker contains this interesting note: "Who can tell me the name of the notorious who they say is the Riddell of Wednesday evening station 6 o'clock and empiles bags of sand with fell and buried the dullest desert of tarts, larches, conquer chills, 25¢ at All Drug cream and compote which were part of us?"

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

Being good comes natural to a woman, a man has to be sentenced to it.

The thing that makes a man contented about his talents is not to have any.

The thing that puts enthusiasm into people's prayers is wanting what they pray for.

You can tell when a man isn't a success in business by how sure he is somebody else who is a success is also a thief.

HEINE MUSICALE PROMISES TREAT

Among the Talented Artists Who Will Appear is Helen Colburn Heath.

The Heine piano recital, which is to be held in Ebell Hall Tuesday evening, bids well to be the most elaborate affair of its kind ever held in Oakland. All the reserve seats in the house have been sold and this fact alone goes to guarantee the attractiveness of the program.

Miss Cecilia Cowles, the talented young pianist, will be heard to excellent advantage in several numbers. This young artist is held in high favor by the music-loving public for her superb playing.

Mr. Harold Pracht, the popular baritone, has sung a number of times in the bay cities and no doubt there are many who will be very anxious to hear him in his initial appearance in Oakland.

Mrs. Helen Colburn Heath, the popular soprano who recently completed a series of song recitals in the East, will render several popular solos.

CHINESE HOLD HUGE VESSEL

Manchuria Tarries in the Stream for Returning Oriental Diplomats.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—Delayed almost two hours by waiting for belated passengers from overland points, the Pacific Mail liner Manchuria passed out to sea a little after 8 o'clock this afternoon under the guidance of Pilot Hayes. The Manchuria was in command of Captain Daniel E. Frille, having temporarily succeeded Captain J. W. Saunders, who is on sick leave.

The Manchuria did not risk the mid-channel, which led out over a breaking bar, but went around through the North channel, which skirts Point Bonita and hugs the coast for a distance of two or three miles before presenting a favorable opening seawards. But this opening, usually smooth, was covered with foam, although the hug, Manchuria did not seem to be bothered by the tumbling waters. Pilot Wallace, bound out to his station, was a passenger on the Manchuria as far as the pilot boat.

The belated passengers were Dr. Chien Chih, and his party of Chinese secretaries, who formed part of the suite of Prince Fu Lun when he passed through this city several weeks ago. Floods had delayed the overland train several hours, and the Manchuria, at request, was held for the distinguished party. The big liner had left her slip at pier 42 at 12:45 o'clock, or fifteen minutes before schedule time, in order to take advantage of slack water, and anchored off the dock where the last of the baggage and mails, as well as the all passengers, were put aboard by the tug boat.

The Manchuria, under ordinary circumstances, might have had little or no trouble in leaving her slip regardless of the tide, but with the huge liner Chien Maru, in the slip, which is only 200 feet in breadth, the Pacific Mail officers were not inclined to take any chances.

The Manchuria, with the load she carried, weighed 20,000 tons. She gets underway quickly and in close quarters, and with an adverse tide, might have raked the Chien Maru in a fearful manner. As it was, however, the mammoth steamer was taken out into the stream as easily as a steam schooner might have been. There were 215 saloon and many steerage passengers aboard, and a cargo of several thousand tons of general freight.

VIOLINIST WILL BE HEARD IN CONCERT

Antonio de Grassi, the celebrated violinist, who married Miss Winnifred June Morgan last Friday, will appear at Ebell Hall, Monday evening, January 26.

Signor de Grassi has had the honor of appearing before the royal families of the old world and he cherishes a medal of honor presented him by the Crown Princess Stephanie.

Signor de Grassi is to be assisted by Mrs. Little A. Birmingham, the well-known contralto of San Francisco, and Frederick Maurer as accompanist.

The good effects are said to become apparent immediately. It is also a fine one for all persons of failing strength.

HORSE MEAT IS SOLD FOR BEEF

Warning Issued By Food Inspector and Slaughter Houses Implicated.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—"Look out for horse meat sold as beef." This is the warning issued today by Dr. Gottschalk Koehler, chief food inspector for the city in the health department.

Dr. Koehler believes that in half a dozen slaughtering plants around Chicago horses are killed, dressed and the meat shipped into Chicago and to foreign ports.

Some of it takes the form of "corned beef" and some "meat roasts," he charges.

"In a few days I expect to find some of the proprietors where this meat is sold," said the doctor.

"I am confident it is used in some of the free lunch counters and it is disposed of by the cheaper class of butchers."

You will regret it if you don't see the Rebus Contest on page 18; $500 in cash and prizes free.

PRINCETON'S FACULTY HELPS FIGHT A FIRE

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 23.—Revised estimates of the loss caused by a fire, which originated in the terminal building early today place the figures between $60,000 and $75,000.

The inadequacy of the water supply caused much anxiety for the safety of the University buildings, but the good work of the volunteer firemen and many of the University students checked the flames about 100 feet from Nassau street, on the opposite side of some of the institution buildings.

The student body and practically the entire faculty including President Wilson and Dean Fine, also were on hand to lend any assistance necessary.

Two students worked like beavers, helping the police to carry goods from the stores and homes.

TAFT BIDS ADIEU TO GEORGIA

STARTS FOR CHARLESTON EN-ROUTE TO PANAMA

President-Elect Is Sent Off With a Cheer of Good Will as He Leaves Atlanta After His Southern Visit.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 23.—William Howard Taft started today for Charleston, S. C., from which point he sails for Panama on Monday. His departure was attended by a large number of persons who came to the station to say their farewells, and as the special train moved out the cheer of good will was given. One distinguished guest who has become so popular with the residents of Augusta.

Taft was accompanied to Charleston by John Hayes Hammond, besides his assistant secretary, W. Odell Mischler, the telegraph men and newspaper writers. He will be met in Charleston tomorrow by Mrs. Taft, who will go with him to Panama.

Senator Knox and Frank Hitchcock will also meet him there for a conference on cabinet and other matters pertaining to the new administration. Mr. Taft will probably go to Charleston today and be the guest of honor at a banquet there tonight, at which he will be the chief speaker.

"Be you Dr. Fender?" asked a tall, lean man walking into the consulting room of a fashionable Chicago practitioner. "I am," replied the doctor.

"Well, look here, I'm glad to find you at last," remarked the patient. "I'm glad to find you at last. We remember you in '98, when you were in London, how you set a tailor's arm and didn't charge him a cent." "I'll tell you what I did," said the doctor, with the prospect of a big fee rising before him. "Well sir," said the visitor, "I'm that tailor, and I've broke the other arm, so I'm come to have it fixed on the same terms."

Chief (to industrious clerk in government office, on Christmas Eve): "Why didn't you do your work in the last week of the year last night?"

Industrious Clerk: "I beg your pardon, but you see, the clock struck four just at that point, and I didn't care to work overtime."

Talks on Teeth
BY
The Rex Dental Co.
(INCORPORATED)

Are Your Teeth Perfect

There are only a few people who are blessed with perfect teeth, and especially those who have lost them or are confronting with the proposition of supplying these missing teeth in some way.

If there was nothing better offered by the leading dentists of this country than the partial plate or ordinary bridge work, the partial plate this is the best form of dental prosthesis.

But that's all that it does. It is a poor excuse for nature's teeth.

The ordinary bridge work as practiced by the average dentist is a mere exercise of his hands from start to finish. No man would submit to wearing this sort of work for an instant. He knew for many years now, the advertisement to show him something better and to present the virtues of Alveolar Method of restoring missing teeth without the use of any foreign material.

Although this company has been practicing this method of dentistry for less than five years, the business of the company has grown to such an extent that it is now one of the largest dental business in the world. There is a reason for this growth, and that reason is the success of the Alveolar Method of restoring missing teeth without the use of any foreign material.

We take great pleasure in submitting the following testimonial from Mr. Randall, for whom we put in our Alveolar Method:

Antioch, Jan. 5, 1909.
Dear Sir: I feel it a duty on point of merit to offer you a token of my appreciation for the Alveolar Dental work you have done for me. My upper front teeth are imbedded so solidly that there is positively no perceptible movement of any of them, or any unimportant tooth, and they feel as if they had grown there.

My mastication and articulation both have been fully restored to normal again and I consider the work a clever and skillful masterpiece. I am very much satisfied with the results.

(Signed) GEO. F. RANDALL,
Constructing Engineer
With the W. F. Barnes Commercial
Co., San Francisco.

In restoring missing teeth we follow nature's plan as closely as possible. There is nothing at all about the method that is not in accordance with all dental comfort. It is a common sense proposition all the way through, and our charges are no higher than those asked by other dentists for similar work.

If it is impossible for you to come to our office at the present time, send for a free book entitled "Alveolar Dentistry," a valuable guide on the teeth and their relation to the hand, worth thousands of dollars to any one afflicted with tooth worries. Will you send for it today?

NOTE—Make a note of our name and address to be on the safe side.

There are imitators abroad who make false claims.

been provided in this little boat, and whether the winds shall blow or the storms come to attack her the staunch craft is calculated to conquer the elements.

Staunch Little Craft

The vessel is a sailing yawl and is fitted with a 30-horsepower gasoline engine. She is 14 feet over all, 12 feet long, 4½ feet beam and is 7 feet in depth inside. A kitchen is to be installed, and Mrs. Cole will supervise the preparing of the menu for the crew.

Captain Cole has a record of which he is justly proud. He began his life at 14 as a cabin boy. Gradually he progressed until he was honored with the title of master. His first charge was the ship Golden Gate, 154 tons, sailing in the Northern seas, plying in the San Francisco Alaskan trade, out of Seattle. Captain Cole was in the trading line from 1888 to 1904 in the Alaskan ports.

Captain Cole is very modest in his statements relative to this particular boat. He is constructing. Yet to those who are qualified to know a boat when they see it, his craft will not only furnish the intended speed but will prove thoroughly seaworthy. Captain Cole was asked whether he had any intentions of putting the craft in a race now or in the future. He replied:

"I am not building the boat for a racer, but you can see that the lines are not of the hang-back order. I have she will have speed." And the twinkle of assurance in his eyes showed that he is confident that he has a racing craft which will demand a first-class opponent to defeat it.

A Master Builder

The boat is being built in the rear of Captain Cole's home, one and one-half stories from the water. It will be launched to the launching point as soon as completed, which will be in a few weeks, and will be launched at Beetles' ways.

In connection with the building of this boat it is of interest to note the workshop of the master

200-MILE ENDURANCE RUN FOR FEBRUARY

Dealers' Association Makes Definite Plans

By ELIZABETH GREGG.

CARL CHRISTENSEN, ARTHUR WIKKERINK AND E. L. DEMMING IN A 1909 BUICK WHITE STREAK

At a meeting of the Dealers' Association on Friday it was definitely decided to hold the 200 mile endurance run, which has been under discussion for some time on Sunday, February 7.

Ten dealers do not do car track racing but appreciate the value of endurance contests as tests of their machine and almost without exception the dealers are represented in such an event.

February contest will consist of a 100-mile run from San Francisco to Oakland via San Jose, returning by the same route. Five and a half hours are allowed for each half of the trip and an hour will be taken out for lunch in Oakland. Adjustment may be made on the road, but they cannot be touched during the luncheon hour. The recently organized San Francisco Motor Club will have charge of the starting of the cars, and the meeting of them at San Jose, Oakland, and at the finish. The first car will leave San Francisco at 6:30 on Sunday morning.

MINING STOCKS

NEW YORK STOCKS

SAN FRANCISCO. Jan. 23.—Owing to the bad telegraphic service with the East, there was little trading in the Bush-street exchange yesterday, outside of the manipulation of the Comstocks. The Comstock still continues to be the principal feature of the trading. The volume of business, however, has begun to increase, and several of the leaders showed signs of breaking yesterday. Opal fell from $1.90 to $1.80; Mexican from $1.10 to $1.07 and Savage from 42 to 42. Con. Virginia fell back two points to 95 and Union to 20 to 17. Practically all the other Comstocks sold at a lower level than the previous closing. The Tonopah were quiet. Montana sold down from 55 to 51 and McNumara from 32 to 30. Belmont was steady at 90 and Jim Butler at 17. West End fell off two points to 30. The other stocks of the group were not traded in and remained at the same prices as at the previous session.

There was little trading in the Goldfield list yesterday. Goldfield, Colorado, fell from 10 to 9.50 and to 10 again at 10.50, and Florence declined a peg to 44.375. Booth was firm at 25 and Frazer at $1.17 1/2. Rawhide Coalition was steady at 50.

Coming tomorrow the Comstocks will be first on the list for the call, will come after about twenty-five of the most active stocks here. Nevada stocks, including the Tonopah, will be issued by the company at a later date, giving the public full information as to what is being done something more detailed than the usual statement.

Comstock Pacific seems to have determined to gather in all minority stock of the Comstocks have become so active they do not get the Goldfield and Atlantic before making that company part of the main line of the system.

LABOR MATTERS ACROSS THE BAY

Opposition to Prohibition and to Local Option Is Strongly Indorsed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 23.—San Francisco Labor Council has received a letter from the local chapter of the Royal Arch, an organization composed largely of saloon men, thanking the council and its affiliated unions for the action last week in opposing prohibition and local option, stating that legislation in such directions will tend to throw out of employment thousands of men and women workers.

Ship Drillers Elect

Ship Drillers' Union No 9037 has elected the following officers for the current term: President, H Rooney; vice president, A S Nichols; secretary, E L Perret; treasurer, William F Schrader; trustees, J Johnson, A S Nichols, and D Whalen; executive committee, William F Schrader, W Miller, J Johnson, D Whalen, C McGeehan, T Tracy, and W Landy; auditing committee, W Dunn, A S Nichols, and H Miller; delegates to San Francisco Labor Council, E L Perret. Two new members were initiated.

Journeyman Butchers' Protective and Benevolent Association last night gave a masquerade ball at South San Francisco Opera House Fourteenth street and Railroad avenue, entertaining a large gathering of its members and their wives, sisters and friends. Revery, mirth and dancing reigned until an early hour. Prizes were awarded for the most original character, the best groups and the best dressed mas-

McNuity-Collins Wins

G G McNaughy, third vice president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, yesterday received a telegram from President Samuel Gompers and Secretary Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor, notifying him of the decision of the executive board in the matter of the internal controversy between the two wings of electricians. The McNulty-Collins wing is declared the bona fide organization while the faction headed by J J Reid is declared a usurper.

Sheet Metal Workers Union No 104 has decided to purchase $2000 worth of stock in the proposed Los Angeles labor temple. The union owns a lot on Guerrero street and has an interest in Sheet Metal Workers hall on the same street. It lost considerable of its funds through the failure of banks, but still has $18,000 in its treasury. Its officers have decided they say, that land is the best and safest investment in San Francisco and California and its surplus funds are to be invested in that way hereafter.

An invitation was received from the structural steel branch of the California Metal Trades Association asking the council and its affiliated unions to join in a home industry and prosperity carnival to be held in April. Action on the invitation was deferred until next Friday evening.

Concerning Asiatics

In reply to charges that a Japanese janitor was employed at its headquarters at Jefferson Hall, the Barbers Union in a communication explained that the Asiatic was employed by an automobile firm. The union had made repeated efforts to secure his discharge without success, and will therefore rent other quarters as soon as possible.

A communication from the Anti-Japanese Laundry League, calling attention to a section of the State constitution prohibiting the employment of Asiatics by corporations, and asking the council to assist in its enforcement, was referred to the law and legislative committees.

To the same committee was sent a request from the Musicians' Union urging the indorsement of a proposed law providing for the registration of music teachers.

Want Boycott Raised

A request of the Barbers Union for the raising of a boycott against J Brown, a boss barber on Market street, was referred to the executive committee. The union stated that while Brown was considered unfair it felt that his energies may better be directed against other employers with whom he has trouble.

A communication was read from Secretary M M McCurrie of the San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, denying that the society had accepted strikebreakers, and stating that it favored the bill of State Senator C P O'Brien that applications for positions as officials of such societies should be passed upon by the regular police boards.

The council indorsed a protest from the Socialist party against the action of the police in interfering with a street meeting at Post and Fillmore streets Friday evening, January 16 when the police, it was charged, broke up the assembly, clubbing men and women.

Editor: I see that Suffracte who has been lecturing challenges are to a discussion on the platform today. That's something in progress. Please accept the challenge and write an article.

Jones: If you don't mind, I'd rather be excused.

Editor: Why? I thought you'd jump at the chance.

Jones: Well, you see, I've had enough discussion on a public exhibition without venturing on a public exhibition. She happens to be my wife.
